$600,000 Mill Expansion Set At Gainesville

Hosiery Manufactory Will Double Pay Roll and Capacity.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 24.—Plans for expenditure of approximately $600,000, which would double the capacity of the plant as well as its pay roll, were announced today by Leslie F. Quinlan, vice president and general manager of Owen-Osborne, Inc., Gainesville's large hosiery manufactory.

Work, to begin within a week, will be rushed to completion and the enlarged quarters are expected to be occupied within 60 to 90 days. The present pay roll of $7,000 a week will be increased to nearly $15,000, and the present number of employees increased from 380 to more than 500.

The new building will be erected on properties recently acquired, which adjoin the present structure. The building will cost approximately $80,000 and will be modern in every detail.

In addition to the property for the factory, the company also has acquired 11 acres from the Pacolet Manufacturing Corporation, which adjoins, and will cut through, to a street behind the plant, a new 30-foot road on which building lots will be available.

Quinlan said the contract for the addition has been let to the McCoy Construction Company, of Greenville, S. C.

PULP MILL SEEKS SITE FOR FACTORY

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 24.—(AP) Allied Industries, Inc., is considering the purchase of properties for erection of a paper pulp mill in the Mayday section, it was learned authoritatively here this afternoon.

C. H. Murdock, executive of the corporation, was in Valdosta, accompanied by F. H. Brown, vice president of the Southern railway, in charge of the Georgia, southern and Florida line, looking over possible sites for the mill.

They were in conference with Harley Langdale, Valdosta attorney and owner of 35,000 acres of timberland in the Mayday section.

It was reported definite decision to locate at Mayday had been reached, but official confirmation was withheld.

'Disaster' Rumor Spread in Panama

PANAMA, July 24.—(AP)—An extensive check of military and civil centers here failed to disclose the source of a widespread rumor today that a bomb explosion had taken 60 lives in the Canal Zone.

Officials engaged in construction of a third set of canal locks and other defense activities flatly denied any explosion had occurred. A check of workmen also was negative.

Some expressed belief the rumor was the work of "Fifth Columnists" seeking to create anxieties among civil workers.

Aliens Voted Still More Heat In Elections, Is Predicted for White Charges Atlanta Today

Council Calls for Fulton and DeKalb To Purge Their Lists.

Aliens, swearing falsely that they are citizens of the United States, have voted in Fulton county elections and have served on petit juries in the county, Councilman John A. White declared yesterday.

To remedy what he described as an "unbelievable situation," Council has passed and the Mayor yesterday signed a resolution introduced in council by Mr. White urging that the registrars of Fulton and DeKalb county purge their lists of non-citizens illegally qualified.

Pledges Prosecution.
In addition, Mr. White said that he would "see to it that all persons who have fraudulently voted in previous primaries and elections are prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Refusing publicly to name individuals, or to indicate the number of aliens fraudulently registered, Mr. White said that this information would be turned over to the registrars in order that the purging of the lists would be made easier.

Mayor Hartsfield immediately expressed his approval of the purge resolutions, and urged that the registrars be particularly careful about future registrations. He also issued an order asking that the police department co-operate with the registrars.

Bill to Be Offered.
Since a voter, to be qualified, must swear to American citizenship, Council White said that the presence of their names on the registration lists would be evidence of perjury and prosecution could be based on that charge.

Mr. White said also that he intended to introduce in council a measure forbidding the use of the city auditorium or city parks to "any anti-American organization which refuses to salute the flag or which fails to recognize the Constitution of the United States or of Georgia."

Flag Displayed As Witnesses Convene Here

Religious Group Meets Peacefully Despite Many Protests.

By WILLARD COPE.

An earnestness and friendliness reminiscent of country camp meetings of long ago held the city auditorium yesterday in a gentle but persuasive spell.

Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious group that believes strongly in the individual and his destiny and that the actual reign of the Deity upon the earth is soon to begin, opened its first theocratic convention of southern workers, representatives and members to which "all people of good will" also were invited—to last through Sunday.

In the background were (1) the grim assurance of police protection against interference with their sessions or radio lines of communication, and (2) something of a wave of protest to city authorities by various persons who objected to Witnesses' belief that Old Glory should be respected scrupulously, but not saluted.

The convention had been arranged with some little doubt—which proved unjustified. At one time, two months ago, its tentative engagement of the auditorium had been canceled at the instigation of Mayor Hartsfield, but pressure from religious groups overcame this. Yesterday morning the local convention "servant," or manager, H. L. Rogers, of Atlanta, expressed fears that enemies might interfere with telephone connections bringing in the radio addresses. Police Chief Hornsby went to the auditorium, reassured him and stationed a guard of four policemen.

32 Sessions at Once.
It was one of 32 sessions put under way simultaneously throughout the country, and it represented that vast region east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio, save a district about Tampa which held its own gathering. All were addressed by radio by their national "servant," N. H. Knorr, and their national president, Judge J. F. Rutherford, from the "key" convention city, Detroit.

Few more agreeable gatherings ever have been assembled here. Every delegate, every aged man and active woman, smiled pleasantly, chatted easily, dealt in obvious kindness of feeling with every other. There was a surprising number of small children, who played about during intermissions but sat quietly enough, and with an air of real interest, during the actual proceedings.

A certain forthright attitude of the Witnesses was responsible for these misgivings. They do not believe in any form of idolatry, and consider saluting the flag idolatrous. From this has proceeded much trouble from touchy folk in this country and in Canada.

Flag Respected.

A large American flag mounted on the platform was treated with the utmost respect.
"We believe we have done more to advance Americanism in the past three troubled years than has any other group," Rogers told a Constitution reporter. "We have fought through the courts to establish firmly those civil rights which are the very foundation stones of Americanism."

A few persons telephoned protests to the mayor's office, but the auditorium was wholly peaceful. Publishing Society.
Characteristic of the attitude of this group, which its officials defined as neither cult nor sect, but a publishing organization—other than the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society—was this declaration of G. C. Powell, of Atlanta, convention chairman:

"The Kingdom that Christian people of the world have looked forward to so long is at hand. 'It is a government on the earth, uniting all the people, and will last forever.'"

AGRICULTURE IS PREPARED FOR WAR, WALLACE SAYS—Speaking yesterday in Chicago before a group of shirt-sleeved farmers—the National Committee for Agriculture—Secretary of Agriculture and Democratic vice presidential nominee Henry A. Wallace, standing, said that agriculture was better prepared than any section of American life for a war and its consequences.

Martins Back! Thousand Bed At Courthouse

'Well, Well,' Replies Marietta Mayor on Hearing of Return.

The martins are back. Wheeling and dipping and soaring, a flock of more than 1,000 of the amiable little feathered fellows swooped down into the sheltering branches of a big tree in the courthouse parking lot at the corner of Mitchell street and Central avenue about sunset last night, and with great noise of chirruping bedded down for the night.

They were on the annual migration to spend the winter in the balmy climate of South America, and, as they have done in years past, stopped off in Atlanta for awhile to gather their strength for the long flight.

Mayor L. M. Blair, of Marietta, a town whose visitations by the martins earned it national recognition, took the news of their arrival here with but mild enthusiasm.

"Well, well," said Mayor Blair, when informed that the martins had reached Atlanta, and that other feathered hosts would probably be making night uneasy with their cries in their old haunts around his city square soon.

"I will report the matter to Frank Wellons at once," he said. "Mr. Wellons has been named the chief martin shoo-off for this municipality, and he must hear of this at once."

Mayor Blair said he also intended to write to Mr. Connie Watts, of Baldwin, Ga., an admirer of martins, who wrote Mayor Blair and Mayor Hartsfield—urging them to treat the little feathered friends with kindness.

"I will tell Mr. Watts the martins are expected," said Mayor Blair. "And if he wants them preserved he can come down and preserve them himself."

Lon Chaney and Party Sighted in Disabled Boat

AVALON, Catalina Island, Cal., July 24.—(AP)—Lon Chaney Jr., film actor, his wife and three friends were sighted from an airplane today after drifting nearly 24 hours in their disabled boat. The Chaneys, with Mr. and Mrs. L. Wiesen, of Hollywood, and Yolanda, motion picture studio fashion designer, were sword fishing aboard a 32-foot boat off the Catalina isthmus when their motor broke down.

Way Is Cleared for Migration Of British Children to America

Plans Call for Sending Rich, Poor Youngsters Alike; Ship Space Allotted So 1,000 Can Depart Within Few Weeks.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—The United States Committee for the Care of European Children announced today that London developments had cleared the way for an immediate "mass migration" of English children—rich and poor alike—to this country.

Cablegrams said that space for 1,000 children had been allotted in ships bound for North American ports within the next few weeks.

Committee Chairman Marshall Field ordered committee representatives in London to make sure that the group would be "representative."

The committee also cleared 1,000 visas in Washington for "unspecified" children and announced they should be issued in London tomorrow.

Jeffrey Shakespeare, chairman of the British overseas reception board, was urged to see that underprivileged children were included in the visas.

English sources supplied private funds to transport the children. The American committee deposited $50,000 required by the United States as insurance against any likelihood that any children would become public charges.

Heretofore, the committee said, children removed from war zones have been sent to this country as specific guests of specific persons. The new contingent will be listed as "unknowns"—unspecified children.

FIRST REFUGEE GROUP ARRIVES IN U. S.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 24.—(AP)—The first refugees to be evacuated from England to America as a group—97 children and 23 mothers—arrived here tonight from Montreal, Canada, under the auspices of Yale University and Swarthmore College for placement in private homes in the United States.

Weary, but happy and in apparent high spirits, the youngsters, ranging in age from one month to 15 years, detrained at the New Haven railroad station and were loaded immediately into buses to be transported to the Yale Divinity school and the local children's center—their temporary havens.

America To Send Thousands of Planes to Britain, Beaverbrook Says

By The Associated Press.

An American-made bomber seized by the Germans from the French was shot down yesterday and another was damaged by British spitfires in fierce bomb raid battles which cost the Nazis 12 planes.

At least two raiders were brought down by coastal anti-aircraft guns and the rest by fighting planes as the raiders struck hard at English ports and seaplanes all day long.

Counter-punching British air and sea forces smashed back at torpedo boats and take-off points the Germans are spreading hastily along the eastern North sea in "pre-invasion" readiness.

Win Against Odds.

The British air ministry, claiming success often against heavy odds for Britain's fast little Spitfires, said that American-made planes, identified as "Chance Vought 158's," were encountered at least twice in the German raiding formations.

The American planes were the first of the wartime deliveries to France reported seen in action against England.

The British claimed that at least three of the fighter escorts were downed in the attacks to get at the bombing planes. The first American plane was described as swirling into a spin and plunging into the sea. The second's wing was damaged badly by gunfire.

As the war raged in another part of the continent, 46 civilians were killed and 88 wounded when 10 enemy planes dropped 80 to 100 bombs into the harbor and streets of Haifa, port city of the British-mandated Holy Land.

Plane Help from U. S.

Meanwhile, Britain's minister for aviation production, Lord Beaverbrook, told the empire help was coming from the United States. He said the United States would supply Great Britain with 3,000 planes a month and that since May 14 Britain had purchased 12,115 airplane engines from the United States.

For weeks, speculation on Hitler's blitzkrieg against England has mentioned a large force of speedy, motor torpedo boats which would protect troops being ferried across the channel. Now, with the entire kingdom momentarily awaiting the attack, the British announced that one British motor torpedo boat put to flight six German torpedo boats in a pre-dawn engagement in the channel. The admiralty said it was thought casualties were inflicted.

Also figuring in the blitzkrieg speculation have been reported fleets of auxiliary vessels—and yesterday, the British said, planes of the fleet air arm spotted a German naval concentration guarding an auxiliary vessels in the east.

Cobb's Naughties To Don Nighties

MARIETTA, Ga., July 24.—And what, Chaucery, do you suppose the inmates of the Cobb county prison farm will be draping about their manly forms these coming autumn nights when they lie down to pleasant dreams?

Night gowns! Not pajamas! But night gowns! Long, flowing nighties of Grecian simplicity.

They will be made up by the ladies of a Marietta sewing project, and they will go nicely with the new coats and the improved sleeping quarters which have recently been provided, Commissioner T. M. Head told the Cobb county grand jury yesterday.

Make Hair Grow while the sun shines

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff will disappear, abnormal hairfall will stop, and new hair will actually be visible on the thin and bald spots. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the expert in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you. Come in today.

U. S. Convict's Punishment Is Kept a Secret

Tank-Top 'Fugitive' From Prison Camp Stayed 19 Hours.

Fate of Andrew Jackson Wynne, whose sit-down strike atop the water tower of the federal penitentiary is the only piece of news the public has had out of the institution in many a year, had been decided yesterday but will remain an official secret until it receives Washington's approval.

"You boys have had enough fun already," Warden Joseph Sanford told newspapermen yesterday. "It's time you laid off this business."

Whether Wynne will be punished for his disobedience was debated by a board of inquiry at the prison. The board's decision must be approved by Sanford, and approved again by the proper authorities in Washington.

Public Will Know.

Then, Sanford said, the board's decision will be made public.

The 20-year-old prisoner climbed to the top of the tank at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and, armed with a heavy machinist's hammer, held his position against all comers. At 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning he climbed down after a talk with a prison guard.

Wynne was due to have been released yesterday after serving a two-year term, less 94 days off for good behavior, for transporting a stolen automobile in interstate commerce.

Deputies Await Him.

Waiting for his release were two Fulton county deputies, armed with warrants to return him to Clatsmith county to complete a four to five-year sentence for burglary.

Wynne apparently decided that three more months in the comparative luxury of the federal penitentiary was better than the life in a county prison camp, and climbed to the top of the water tank, apparently hoping his good behavior time would be cancelled.

Stripped to the waist he held out for 19 hours, five of them in the face of a steadily blazing sun. He amused himself and spectators drawn to the scene by beating the metal roof of the tower with his hammer, waving a torn piece of cloth, and by occasional warwhoops. During the night he catnapped on a small metal platform.

Annenberg Put in Pen; 'Just Another Prisoner'

LEWISBURG, Pa., July 24. —(UP)—M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher, convicted of violating the federal tax laws, was "just another prisoner" at northeastern federal penitentiary tonight.

Annenberg, who entered the jail secretly late last night to start a three-year sentence, was placed in the routine 30-day quarantine.

When the quarantine period expires, the one-time head of a vast nation-wide race news service will be given medical examinations and assigned a prison task in the same manner as other inmates, according to Warden William H. Hiatt.

Germans Use U.S. Bombers in British Raids

ern North sea. Aerial torpedoes were loosed and, the admiralty said, one escort ship was hit.

60 Planes in Battle.

The air and sea defenses of Britain smashed with sudden fury at the Nazis from the English channel to the eastern North sea. Sixty or more planes, German and British, tangled in a flaming battle high over the Thames estuary when Nazi raiders attempted to repeat an earlier attack in which they had dropped 100 or more bombs at a merchant convoy.

"Flying sometimes in heavy rainstorms between layers of clouds pilots of the fighter command have fought Heinkels, Dorniers and Junkers bombers, Messerschmitt fighters, the new Heinkel 113 fighter and even American aircraft captured by the Germans from the French," the air ministry said.

"Antiaircraft gunners saw a Dornier 17 and a Dornier 215 crash after they had fired at them. The Dornier 17 was caught by searchlights over the northwest coast of England at 3 a. m. Our second burst pushed its tail up," reported one battery.

"The enemy aircraft then fell into a dive. Its engine cut out. But it flattened out and the engines came on again, but the Dornier at once burst into flames.

"It crashed eight miles from the gunners who had brought it down. Fly Like Geese.

"A squadron of Spitfires fought the day's biggest air battle when patrolling in the morning off the southeast coast. They were 7,000 feet up between two layers of clouds, with the rain beating heavily on them. One thousand feet below they spotted 18 German bombers, like a flight of geese, in arrow heads of three. Then three Messerschmitt 109's above and behind the bombers. Then another 12 Messerschmitt 109's higher still, and finally a formation of Heinkel 113 fighters.

"The Spitfire pilots attacked in line astern and one Spitfire pilot reported that the enemy 'looked eager for a fight.'

"A Spitfire pilot who attacked one of the Messerschmitts had fired only 120 rounds (a fraction of a second's bursts) when the Messerschmitt burst into flames. The German pilot did not have to jump, he was shot out, together with pieces of his aircraft, which flew in all directions. What was afterwards discovered to be a rubber dinghy, the first known to be carried by a Messerschmitt 109, also fell out.

"The German airman's parachute opened and he and the dinghy fell into the sea. His attacker last saw him swimming toward the rubber boat."

An observer said the planes were so thick he could not distinguish friend from foe, as German bombers began falling out of the air, and the rest streaked home across the English channel.

German Planes Damaged.

Last evening's cold and terse British account of Tuesday night's raids on Germany and the neighboring nations which she dominates listed the following as bombed:

Three airplane factories (Gotha, Kassel, Wenzendorf); three oil depots (Hamburg, Gelsenkirchen and Flushing); 12 airbases and numbers of railways, antiaircraft positions and freight yards; patrol boats in Dunkerque harbor; docks at Amsterdam; a German flying boat was shot down off Scotland, only one British plane was acknowledged lost.

Lord Beaverbrook's announcement that the United States would supply Britain with 3,000 planes would indicate either a scheme for remarkable acceleration of American aircraft production, far beyond the pace suggested after President Roosevelt's call for 50,000 planes last May, or merely a long-range program looking ahead six to eight years.

Present United States airplane production is not more than 600 machines a month. One well-known engineering authority has estimated that American factories cannot produce 3,000 planes a month until the spring of 1944.

That would be for defense needs of the United States alone, wholly ignoring demands for planes abroad.

"Word From Morgenthau."

It has been estimated, too, that a production of 3,000 planes a month would require a supervisory and ship personnel of 475,000. American aircraft factories today employ fewer than 100,000.

Lord Beaverbrook said Morris Wilson, head of the British aircraft purchasing mission in the United States, just had informed him of American acceptance of the production plan, and that that word came from Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

He added Britain's own aircraft production reached a record production last week, and that the output so far for this month was double that of the same period a year ago.

Nearing Air Equality.

With the life of Britain perhaps depending upon ability of her airplane factories to keep Britain's skies filled with defenders, informed sources said she rapidly is overtaking Germany in monthly airplane production.

These sources said Britain's more than doubled home production, plus increased American deliveries, is "rapidly approaching" a figure of about 1,800 planes a month.

It was estimated that Germany is "maintaining" a production at about that level, but has lost 4,000 to 5,000 planes since the war began.

Stung by repeated Italian raids on Gibraltar, Malta and Alexandria, the British near eastern air command sent new raiding waves out to destroy or cripple Italian sea and air power.

The Italians announced that Rome's antiaircraft batteries opened up precautionary barrages on two occasions as a result of "reports" from Gaeta, naval base near Naples, only 75 miles from the capital. The Italians said several persons were injured by flying fragments from their own shells.

Methodist Board Headed by Moore

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—Bishops, pastors and laymen of the Methodist church, working in 95-degree heat, tackled the problems of complete reorganization of the church's operating machinery today.

"Everybody is out of a job right now," said one spokesman. He explained that the recent unification of three branches of the church into the Methodist church required the election of new presidents and staffs of all the various boards carrying on the work of the church.

Thus far the only definite action completed was election of Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of Atlanta, as president of the board of missions and church extension. Heads of four divisions of that board and executive secretaries were to be selected later today.

Prior to the unification of the branches of Methodism, Bishop Moore had been stationed in Africa and the Orient for six years as bishop of the Southern Methodist church.

Last June he was given jurisdiction of the states of Georgia and Florida, and established headquarters in Atlanta.

Convicts Called For Defense in Chappell Trial

Subpoenas Show 291 Witnesses Listed for Peek Case.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., July 24.—An authoritative Atlanta source said today that Governor Rivers has signed an order granting defense counsel in the Peek murder case their request to bring 20 Carroll county convicts to the Chappell trial as witnesses next week.

Bill Chappell, 24, son of Carroll County Commissioner W. Hamp Chappell, and three others will go on trial in Cobb superior court Monday for the two-year-old murder of J. Ed Peek and his wife.

The Atlanta source, who asked his name be withheld, said the defense will use the 20 convicts as material witnesses, along with 240 others, mostly character witnesses, 197 of whose names were made public by defense counsel here yesterday. The list of 43 others, revealed today, included the following:

New Defense Witnesses.
Mack Abercrombie, Douglas county sheriff; Astor Merritt, Douglasville lawyer; H. B. Aldridge, Besse Reynolds, Palm Springs; Marjorie Chappell, H. F. Hamilton, Wallace Hamilton, C. A. Hamilton, Wayne Swan, E. D. Echols, Charlie Scott, T. J. Crocker, Thomas Williams, Fidel Davis, R. R. Green, M. E. Geer, H. B. Edridge, Lee Bishop, R. E. L. Morris, Jasper McGuire, Madison E. McGuire, Clara McGuire, Horace McGuire, M. E. Griffin, J. S. McGuire, L. Boyd, J. R. Johnson, Rome Smith, J. L. Hollis, L. S. Smith, W. N. T. Davis, R. C. Williams, Charlie Edwards, W. F. Morris Jr., J. K. Daniel, T. P. Buckner, C. C. Ponce, C. Johnson, J. T. Glass, J. S. Davison, T. Manley, Alford Denmon, Clarence Whitley.

The state made public names of 31 witnesses they will use in its attempt to prosecute Chappell, Jackson Clark and Lewis Turner, convicts, and John Holsomback, for the double murder. They are:

State Witnesses.
Mary Alford, Pearl Leasinger, Pearl Garanto, G. J. McMichen, Frank Wallace, Mrs. Mervin McGraw, Mrs. Horace Alderman, Miss Rose Ann Clark, H. E. Nichols, Mrs. B. F. Bencher, L. J. Harris, Captain J. H. Loft, F. Sarah Stephens, Hamp Riggs, Henry McGuire, Leander Leach, W. S. Gilliam, Gordon Reeves, Arthur Brewer, Thomas W. Head, Mrs. B. B. Estom, Miss Aleene Adeshold, Gordon Williams, Henry Smith, Jim McCarty, H. N. Aiken, Hiatt Lambie, Robert D. Murphy, Mrs. Lewis Turner, P. P. Cole and Jack Brooks.

Riggs, one of the state's 31 witnesses, is also a witness for the defense. He was one of six witnesses listed on the two general bills of indictment. None of the state's 31 witnesses was identified, nor addresses made known.

Judge J. Harold Hawkins today announced the drawing of 75 new jurors for next week.

Mrs. Winsborough Dies at Age of 75

Mrs. Hallie Paxson Winsborough, 75, secretary emerita of woman's work for the Presbyterian Church of the United States, died Saturday in Davenport, Iowa, it was revealed here yesterday.

From 1912 to 1929 she was active secretary of the woman's work and for six years during this period maintained her headquarters in Atlanta, where she was well known in Presbyterian circles. Since her retirement from active work, she has resided in Davenport.

Funeral services were held in St. Louis Tuesday.

Entries Close Today for State Political Races

Several Candidates Expected To Qualify at Last Moment.

By LUKE GREENE.
Battle lines for Georgia's 1940 political campaigns will be drawn at 1 o'clock (Atlanta time) today, when entries close for the Democratic primary September 11.

Adopting some of the strategy of military men, several candidates were waiting until the last moment to qualify in order to see what their opponents and prospective opponents were going to do.

Although rumors continued to circulate that a "dark horse" would spring up in the Governor's race, the general belief was that a fifth candidate was highly improbable.

The rumor also was current that one of the four present candidates would withdraw, but the more informed sources insisted that Albin Nix, Eugene Talmadge, Columbus Roberts and Hugh Howell would "fight it out."

Judge Alexander Stephens, who had qualified as a candidate for chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, and I am deeply grateful and appreciative, but, after careful consideration, I have decided not to make the race," he said in a statement.

As presiding jurist of the second (civil) division of the court of appeals, Judge Stephens' term runs four more years. He was re-elected in 1938.

T. Grady Head, commissioner of revenue, will be one of the last to get under the wire. He plans to qualify for associate justice of the Georgia supreme court only a few minutes before 1 o'clock.

Incumbent Warren Grice already has qualified.

Mrs. Fred Stowe, of Toccoa, secretary of the state Democratic executive committee, is expected to be at the capitol today to accept the entrance fees of the last-minute candidates.

Mrs. Kathleen Hogan, assistant secretary, announced yesterday she had taken in more than $22,000. The total was expected to run well over $25,000 by the time entries close today.

Little change in entries for the major offices was anticipated as the officials prepared for the final day.

WHODUNIT?—Nobody seems to know who put this warning sign up on Roxboro road, near Kingsboro road, but the people who live along that route think it is a good idea, anyway. Roxboro road, N. E., runs from Buford highway to Peachtree street and the traffic on it is lightning fast. Neighborhood opinion is that somebody put it up to try to slow down some of the swift traffic on the street, for so far as they know, no police are hiding out anywhere in the vicinity. Man in the picture is Walter Brown, 3340 Peachtree road, who doesn't know who put the sign up, either.

be most hotly contested will be the races for Governor, commissioner of agriculture and state treasurer.

Candidates already qualified for the agriculture post are Jim I. Hicks, of Americus; Hamilton Ralls, of Hogansville, and Guy Stone, of Glenwood.

Opposing Incumbent George B. Hamilton for state treasurer are Tom Wisdom, former state auditor, and Pat Avery, Atlanta attorney.

Political forecasters expected one other entry in the race for the state prison and parole board. Already qualified are Royal K. Mann, former chief inspector for the board of penal corrections; T. E. Mitchell, of Clayton; Arlie D. Tucker, of the state industrial board; W. P. (Bill) White, former baseball coach at the University of Georgia.

Three appeals court justices who are unopposed so far qualified yesterday. They are B. C. Gardner, Hugh Macintyre and I. H. Sutton.

Among others paying their entrance fees yesterday were W. G. Neville, of Statesboro, for solicitor general of the Ogeechee circuit; Rufus I. Stephens, of Dublin, for judge of the superior court of the Dublin circuit, and R. A. Patterson, of Cuthbert, for solicitor general of the Pataula circuit.

Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanatorium will get $2,000,000 forth of the bonds if the voters of the city approve the issue.

While the hospital group is interested more intimately in the hospital bonds because they are closer to the needs there, Thomas K. Glenn, board chairman, emphasized "our group realizes the need for all the improvements and will urge selection of all of them."

Civic clubs, patriotic leaders, public-spirited citizens and persons in all walks of life will be invited to inspect the hospital within the next few weeks for the purpose of seeing for themselves the urgent necessity for improvements the bonds will provide, it was decided.

In approving the bond issues the mayor said he will name a non-partisan citizens group to sponsor the bond within the next few days and that the campaign in behalf of the $4,000,000 issue will be placed in their hands.

Petain Regime Worried Over 'Phantom Arsenal'

GENEVA, July 24.—(P)—Worried by the disappearance of large quantities of arms during the chaotic days of the armistice, the Petain government at Vichy was reported tonight to have ordered a drive to liquidate a "phantom arsenal" now in the hands of civilians and demobilized soldiers.

Travelers from France reported the Vichy government had ordered all citizens and demobilized soldiers to surrender any arms in their possession before July 30. After this date, any civilian found with arms will be subject to the death penalty.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 25, 1940.

Something Is Wrong

The death of a young convict, still in his teens, who had been serving time at Georgia's "Little Alcatraz," the prison at Dallas in Paulding county, reveals that there is something definitely wrong with Georgia's administration of her penal system.

In the first place, a youth of such tender age should never have been assigned to a prison designed especially for incorrigibles and "hard cases." There can be no explanation to justify this feature of the case.

There are features, in fact, connected with the boy's case throughout that strongly indicate he should never have been doomed to convict stripes. Only 17 years old when first tried, he was convicted of participation in a robbery of which his elder brother, also convicted, declared the youngster was innocent. Nevertheless he was sentenced to from five to seven years, instead of being placed on probation or in some care which would have given him a decent chance for rehabilitation and an opportunity to start life again under kinder circumstances.

That he should have been sent to "Little Alcatraz" is inexplicable.

"Little Alcatraz" is the prison where, within recent months, half a dozen men have deliberately broken their own legs, by placing them between bars of their bunk supports and then twisting their bodies to fall off the bunk. The authorities in charge explained these self-mutilations as merely a trick of men trying to avoid work. However, no one with rudimentary intelligence will believe that six men would resort to such desperate means merely to escape normal conditions of labor. One man, or two, of weak intellect, might. But not six. There must be something, behind the ostensible story, the public does not know.

The State Board of Penal Correction has promised full investigation into the case of Paul Staffins, the 19-year-old convict who died in Grady hospital on Sunday, with bruises and scars upon his body that are mute testimony in support of his story of brutal treatment. The youth told his father, before he died, he had been beaten over the head with a black-jack in the hands of a guard. He cried out in delirium, pleading in terror-haunted tones, "Don't let them beat me—don't let them put chains on me again."

Here is a Georgia boy, with every right to expect a decent chance in life, sentenced to long years for a crime of which his guilty brother, at least, swore he was innocent. Here is a lad, still under 20 years of age, assigned to the most severe prison in Georgia, doomed to live among men classified as the worst criminals in the state.

And here is a boy, dead, with bruises on his head, with discolored sores upon his ankles, with an injured finger, who cried, before he died, that these were the marks of beatings and brutality. And the official cause of death is pneumonia.

Investigation into such a case as this must not be perfunctory. There must be no attempt at whitewash. There must be a full report. Improper conditions, incompetent officials, if they be found, must be eliminated.

And the investigation should be made by responsible parties, not connected in any way with the authorities who sent Staffins to the Dallas prison, or who have anything to do, directly or indirectly, with the administration and operation of that prison—or of any other in the state penal system.

A touch of the gruesome creeps into the sports picture. First division clubs in the American league have been devouring one another like tribes of Europeans.

Strange people—these free Americans! They build great platforms for candidates who, if successful, will spend the next four years on a trapeze.

Atlantic City complains that outsiders bring their lunch, spend nothing, and leave their olive bottles and beauty contestants all over the lot.

The tenor who left her flat at Capri and south of the border is promising on his word of honor to look her up when the swallows come again to Capistrano.

Hitler hates war, he tells a Berlin crowd. As the somewhat similar character remarked in an old Sennett comedy, "I dislike murder. It's so hard to explain."

Nickel a Bale

The National Cotton Council of America, primarily dedicated to the discovery and encouragement of methods for increasing consumption of the southern staple, is seeking, this year, contributions to its cause at the rate of five cents for each bale produced or handled, from growers, crushers, warehousemen, etc.

The council is now in its second year of operation. For the first year it was supported by voluntary contributions but it is felt that the method now adopted will be fairer and result in more widespread interest in the council and its purposes.

Problems of cotton have been a vital issue in the south for decades, but it is to be doubted if those problems have ever been more pressing than they are today. An export market already tragically reduced because of the United States high tariff policies, has been almost entirely wiped out because of the war. Domestic consumption has increased, but even this has fallen far short of what might have been expected because of the increasing use of substitutes.

A heavy surplus hangs over the market, depressing prices, while foreign competition, from nations growing more and more cotton themselves, has increased.

The best solution, it is recognized by all students of the situation, is in the discovery of new uses for cotton in this country and in increasing the rate of domestic consumption.

To this cause the National Cotton Council is dedicated. It has already done excellent work and, undoubtedly, will expand and add to its successes if permitted to continue. The services of the council are of direct benefit to everyone connected with the industry, either as grower, handler or processor. The rate of contribution sought, five cents per bale, is exceedingly small yet, in the aggregate, it would provide funds which, in their use, would bring many times that amount back to the south.

The consensus is that in grabbing the French fleet the British committed an outrageous and unpardonable sin in the nick of time.

The R. O. T. C. Inquires

The government's announced expansion of the navy and a later announcement that a selective draft, if passed by congress, will put a million men of the land forces under arms by October 1 has impressed the public that the preparedness program means something.

It has stirred many thousands of members of the R. O. T. C.—the reserve officers' corps, young men—many of them not so young now but still strong and able—to inquire at headquarters "just where we stand."

Their sentiment, according to officials, seems to be that they'd rather hold on to their jobs until they are actually needed—but they are ready and willing to go when the bugle blows.

Atlanta has its full proportion of reserve officers—from the Georgia Tech "navy," with its annual cruises; the infantry units of various colleges; the training camps of the National Guard. Such reserve officers are to be found all over Georgia.

As for the men of the rank and file, there should be no lack of material. The army, according to announcements, wants only the first pick—men of between 21 and 31, to be chosen by lot from civilian life.

"Men who can best be spared," the story said. That means single men, young men without dependents. Men not engaged in the "essential industries."

It should be attractive to many thousands of unemployed or young men whose jobs enable them to "just get by" and which lead nowhere. There are far too many such.

Editorial of the Day

CAVALRY AND MACHINERY

(From the Army and Navy Journal.)

The forward-looking and logical step taken by the War Department in directing the creation of an armored field force must not be taken as lessening the necessity for filling out our horse cavalry and putting it on as effective a basis as possible. The horse cavalry has gone forward doggedly with a training and development program which has kept abreast of the times and yet preserved its traditionally American role of rapid mobility over all types of terrain, high fire power, shock and surprise.

When the task of developing mechanization was turned over to it, the cavalry went forward with zest. The original mechanized regiment was developed into a brigade and then expanded to a division where small increases would have made it a division.

The United States, nor the western hemisphere which we are now committed to defend, is not all flat country like Poland and northern France. There is much mountainous terrain, sandy and swampy country, where horse cavalry could operate with great advantage, and where motorized elements would be at a corresponding disadvantage. Moreover, the United States possesses great animal resources, some 11,000,000 horses. The failure to be prepared to exploit this superiority would be shamefully uneconomical.

There should be more widespread recognition of the fact that the American cavalryman today fights dismounted with varied automatic weapons of high fire power, but that the horse enables him to get into position (often in places otherwise inaccessible) more rapidly than the enemy anticipates, or when the occasion requires to disperse rapidly for protection. Portee cavalry, made possible by the use of regular commercial stake trucks, possesses the same strategic mobility as motorized infantry and yet retains the tactical mobility afforded by the horse in the theater of operations. With the promised expansion of the first cavalry division, the next step should be the completion of the second cavalry division and organization of units necessary to build a cavalry corps. This should be done promptly.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

AFTER THE PURGE: CHICAGO WASHINGTON, July 24.—The issue has ceased, somehow, to seem very fundamental. Yet it is an interesting, if slightly nostalgic, footnote to the history of these whirling times that the New Dealers regard what happened in Chicago as the natural end-product of the process begun in the famous 1938 purge.

The President distressed the party hacks who chiefly composed the delegation at the convention by forcing them to take Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace as second man on the ticket. It was loudly charged, both by anti-Wallace delegates and anti-New Deal observers, that the President's motive was to "New Dealize" the Democratic party. The New Dealers, speaking for the President, cheerfully answer guilty to this charge. New Dealizing the democracy was precisely what they hoped for from the purge, and now they are in the comfortable frame of mind of a man who feels he lost the first battle but won the war.

THE NEW DEAL THEORY Purely domestic American historic processes are likely to be aborted at any moment, these days, by the brutal impact of events abroad. Nevertheless, it is difficult to doubt that, for what it is worth, the New Dealers' view is correct.

The 1938 purge was represented, at the time, as a purely frivolous grab for power. This was a half-truth. Behind the purge was an elaborate political theory, best set down in Professor Harold Laski's "The American Presidency," a book which may be described as Laski's brilliantly assembled recollections of talks with the President, Thomas G. Corcoran, Benjamin N. Cohen, Justice Hugo L. Black and others. This theory is basic in the New Deal.

Briefly, the theory is that the American government, with its careful division of powers, was planned as a "negative" government. It is now called upon, by the social, economic and political pressures of the times, to assume the role of "positive" government. "Positive" action is constantly being frustrated by the division of powers, which causes governmental responsibility to evaporate somewhere between the capitol and the White House. The remedy is to bring congress and the presidency into line together by a sharp party realignment which will make the President's leadership of his party in congress far surer and firmer than it is at present.

Thus the theory. The 1938 purge, started at haphazard in a moment of presidential irritation with the rebellious senate, ended by becoming a conscious effort to put this theory into practice. The third-term movement originated among the New Dealers at almost the same time as the purge. Undoubtedly, there is something accidental in what the New Dealers describe as "the end-result."

For instance, your correspondents are convinced that if the Republicans had named Wendell Willkie, the Democratic nominee would have been Cordell Hull, an old-line Democrat, rather than the President. Also, there is little question that the President's insistence on Wallace as his running mate was partly due to a perhaps subconscious feeling that the vice presidential nominee might inherit the big job. Yet the fact of the "end-result" is there. The New Dealers can claim with some justice that realignment has come, when the Democratic ticket is headed by the leader and another member of their faith, one of whom is an ex-Republican, while the Republican ticket is composed of two anti-New Dealers, the most ardent of whom is an ex-Democrat.

KELLY'S STILL THERE The New Dealers' thought is that everything in the Democratic party is now within their grasp. They say that they will take control of the national committee machinery, carry out the reorganization of the party during the campaign, and make the realignment permanent before election time. From a practical standpoint, this program probably bodes rather well for Wendell Willkie.

As it happens, however, there seems to be little likelihood of the program being put into effect. Although he is bitterly resisting the pressure, Senator James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, no New Dealer by any stretch of the imagination, is the man the New Dealers want to make national chairman. They have not yet sloughed off the Ed Kellys and the Frank Hagues, whose opposition to the nomination of Wallace, the Republican and New Dealer, almost put Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley on the ticket. And although the theory is interesting, and may some day have deeper results than it has so far shown, it is pretty doubtful whether the President will put his campaign allies to the test of any New Deal shibboleths.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

A Habit

Of Rodents.

Gossip. That's what it is. A characteristic of the rat.

Sharp, malicious teeth that gnaw and gnaw at the foundations of the most precious structure in a human life, the structure of an individual's good repute. Nasty, hateful, vicious whisperings and head shakings and meanness that tear down, if they can, the reputation of some innocent victim, a reputation it has taken a lifetime to create.

The habit, feeding on itself, turns finally from the individual victim, to the group, the organization or the institution.

"I have it on good authority—"

"Do you know that—"

"I am in position to know the truth about—"

Whisper, whisper, whisper. Destructive, cruel, untrue.

The habit, the columnist of our own society. The women who gossip, with spiteful glee, about their neighbors or ostensible friends.

The men who repeat cruel jokes about another fellow, when they're talking in an office, a quiet corner or over a tall coat one, or two.

You Can't Refute Them.

A woman called me at home. She tried to tell me that a charity, which I like to think was not, according to her way of thinking, run as it should be.

"A friend told me . . . I know a teacher who says . . . I've heard stories to the effect . . ."

I tried to tell her she was wrong. It so happened that, in regard to the particular charity of which she spoke, I knew it is doing splendid work. I told her so, and why I knew. My knowledge was not hearsay, but first hand.

And she kept on . . . "I'm in position to know . . . a woman told me . . ."

Faugh. Finally, I had to plead a hurry call elsewhere and end the telephoned conversation. Otherwise it would have gone on and on and on into far reaches of the night. And all based upon nothing more than hearsay or, perhaps, personal hatred or vicious self-interest.

Pleasanter Subject.

Changing the subject to something clean and pleasant—

A father was telling me this story. His son was a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va. The father went there to visit his son.

As they walked together through the town, the son saluted each officer he met. Properly and according to regulations at a military school.

Finally, as they walked across the campus of Washington and Lee University, the son saluted when no other human being was in sight. The father looked around, saw no one, and asked the why of the salute.

"Just a custom," said the boy.

The father pressed for an explanation.

"Well," replied the son, "we always salute as we pass the tomb of General Robert E. Lee."

"I see," commented the father. "Regulations, I suppose?"

"No," was the brief reply.

"Well, perhaps, regulations of the student governing body?"

"No, just a custom." Then, with that semi-humorous quirk to the lips, "but it wouldn't be pleasant for the cadet who failed to salute, right here."

Is This Correct?

Alsop and Kintner, in their column of yesterday, "Capital Parade," said that in recent weeks the "harmful" element has sunk, in the Atlantic, the Avondale Star, the Carolina, the Franconia, the Lancastria and the Georgic. I remember reports on the first two, but that the latter three have been sunk is news to me. Is this correct?

Even though it is conceivable that the British have not publicized all ocean losses, surely the "harmful" element has no possible encouragement to their own peoples, as well as discouragement to the British, would quickly publicize such sinkings. They certainly claim some successes which simply ain't so. Why overlook genuine sinkings, if they are true?

The ships named are important and good transatlantic liners.

I don't want to doubt the word of Messrs. Alsop and Kintner, but I want to know the source of their information. And, really, I hope it is not true.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Sunday, July 25, 1915:

"Chicago, July 24.—A thousand persons lost their lives in the Chicago river today by the capsizing of the excursion steamer Eastland while warping from its wharf with more than 2,400 employees of the Western Electric Company and their relatives and friends on board, bound for a pleasure trip across Lake Michigan."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Friday, July 25, 1890:

"The Newnan Herald says that a citizen of Griffin planted out nearly a quarter of an acre in morning glories last week, thinking they were potato slips."

Further Inquiries NEW YORK, July 24.—Last week while William Green was presenting to the statesmen of the Democratic party at the Chicago convention his desires and demands as president of the American Federation of Labor your correspondent was pursuing inquiries regarding certain activities of high officers of unions under his general jurisdiction. It may be remembered that these dispatches have twitted Mr. Green about the moral character of the leadership of labor, with a capital L, under the American Federation of Labor, and that Mr. Green, far from exerting himself to disinfest the house of labor, first pleaded that he had no authority to do so, and, during the first week of June, blindly indorsed the criminals who control the union of stagehands and movie employees. This approval was personally given at the Louisville convention of that racket.

Therefore, it may be anticipated that Mr. Green will regard as another attack on labor, with a capital L, the revelation that the president, no less, of one of his international unions, to wit, Mr. Joseph Ozanic, of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, owes an unpaid balance on two fines imposed in the United States district court in 1924 and 1925 for the offense of bootlegging.

Indeed, inasmuch as the two foremost criminals of the stagehands' union racket are, respectively, under and a stick-up man, and bootlegging in 1925 was roughly held to be as noble in purpose as the experiment which it ultimately defeated, Mr. Green might take the attitude that Mr. Ozanic's offense was a patriotic and humane service.

But It Was Against Law Be that as it may, the fact nevertheless remains that in 1925 bootlegging was, by law, an ignoble trade, and that Mr. Ozanic acquired a court record and a burden of debt to the United States government which latter has not been discharged and is at present a subject of court proceedings brought by Howard Doyle, the United States district attorney at Springfield, the capital of Illinois and of the union.

Mr. Doyle chanced to be in Chicago last week, and on the subject of the Ozanic case he said that, of a certainty, Mr. Ozanic did owe a balance of $550 on two fines assessed in 1924 and 1925, respectively, and that Mr. Ozanic sat out a term of three months in the city jail of Springfield in the second case.

Mr. Doyle said the offenses involved the operation of a still, and your correspondent would like to give Mr. Ozanic's version of the act charged, and of the present status of the case, but is prevented from doing so by Mr. Ozanic himself, who insisted that no part of his comment, given over the phone, should be used for publication.

Refused Offer He discussed the affair freely, but forbade himself this access to public opinion which was offered as a matter of course.

Mr. Doyle has taken steps to collect the $550 which he claims to be due and unpaid, and his action suggests a possibility that a rather sizable total of unpaid fines imposed on offenders in years gone by, but placed in abeyance under the pauper's oath provision of the federal law, may now be collected from defendants who have acquired money or property in subsequent years.

Under the federal law a defendant who cannot pay may take the pauper's oath and go free after serving 30 days in jail, but the government apparently reserves a right to proceed against that person's wealth, if any, for the full amount, at any future time.

Mr. Ozanic is not the only high officer of an international union of the American Federation of Labor whose name there stands on the books of the United States government as record of an unpaid fine. Another case will be cited tomorrow.

Giant's Boots Shown

Resembling the advertisement of an enterprising shoemaker, a gigantic pair of boots has been placed on exhibition in the Early Settlers' Museum in Dunedin, New Zealand, and is attracting much attention.

Worn by Alex. Miller, a Scotch soldier of the Black Watch Regiment, who was 7 feet 8 1/2 inches tall. He died many years ago.

Statue Honey Sought

How to get honey out of the statue of John Robinson, one-time Governor of New South Wales, is puzzling officials of the Botanic Gardens in Sydney. Bees have built their hives in it for years. They can be seen entering the left ear and leaving by the right. The statue is hollow from the head to the knees so is believed to contain a huge amount of honey.

His Bath Water Sold

Peddlers in London streets recently sold the bath water of the Aga Khan. He is the leader of 12,000,000 Mohammedans and is believed to be a direct descendant of the Prophet Mohammed. His followers do all they possibly can to show their devotion to him. He also is one of the most popular racing men in Britain and has led in more winners than any other owner.

Wrestling Craze

Wrestling is attracting huge crowds in Tokyo, Japan. Carrying food for several meals, thousands gathered outside the gates and prepared for a 36-hour wait for the opening of the summer sumo tournaments. Because of the size of the crowds the tournament was started a day ahead of schedule. Winners in the tournament were given portions equal to any accorded Japan's greatest heroes.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

MR. IKES RETREATS Two items of news from Washington will interest Democrats.

Greatest recommendation for Henry Wallace as vice president is that Harold Ickes, one of the more annoying members of the Washington clique, was so angered by the choice of Wallace he left Chicago in disgust and has refused to have anything to do with the plans for the campaign.

Best news for Democrats, especially southern Democrats, is that Tommy Corcoran, a source of extreme irritation to southern Democrats, apparently is out of the picture. Positive assurances are given he was not consulted on any feature of the campaign. He has not, says the same reliable source, been consulted on a single phase of administration plans for more than two months.

The White House "clique" of Hopkins, Corcoran, Ickes, Cohen and Jackson has been the most difficult feature of the Roosevelt administration for the rank and file of Democrats to swallow.

If the president has broken with them he will have given his third-term campaign a genuine impetus in so far as southern Democrats are concerned.

Selection of Wallace was not at all pleasing to the White House clique.

Corcoran and Ickes tried to have him fired when he, Wallace, opposed the purge in the summer of 1938. He and Hopkins have been at war for years over the Forestry Department. Wallace defeated Ickes.

All of which is encouraging to the Democrats generally, who at first may have been inclined to view with alarm the selection of Wallace. If Ickes is disgusted and if Corcoran is out, the entire picture looks better.

THE PRESSURE GROUP Many of the President's most sincere friends and admirers long have felt he was too susceptible to the small group which clung closest to him.

Many of them believed the only times the President met with defeat was when he listened to them. They sold him the purge idea; they urged the reorganization bill, and sold him other ideas which, while not necessarily wrong, were ill-timed and thrown on the public before the public understood or fairly could estimate them.

Most of his friends feel he has never been wrong when he trusted his own judgment on policies of importance.

The President could win this campaign with ease if he would turn for advice and suggestion to those of his cabinet and to those of his preparedness committee.

Those businessmen who have not entirely lost their balance want to like him. The others respect him. Their respect often may be measured by the intensity of their fear and dislike. They feel he has listened too much to the few radicals about him who entirely and immediately would change the industrial foundations of this country instead of assisting them to be brought about naturally by the demands of economics and trade.

A great many people who do not like the third term are willing to support him because of the very real emergency which confronts us as a nation. They hesitate only because they are fearful of Ickes, Corcoran, Cohen, Hopkins and others. Whether deservedly or not, Corcoran and Ickes have come to be anathema even to many of those most devoted to the President.

And so, if there is loss of influence by this group, which Henry Wallace always has disliked, the outlook is improved.

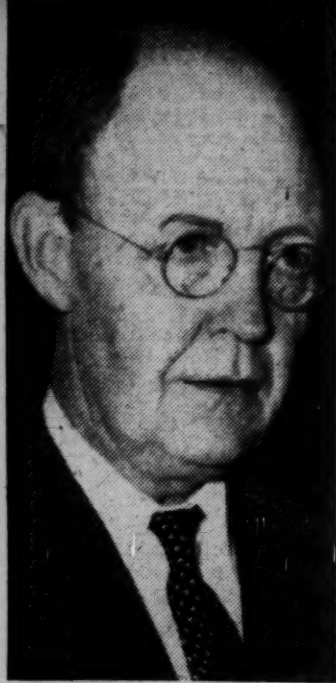

FEARS FOR DEMOCRACY A great many of my friends sincerely are afraid of the third term, believing it definitely will work harm for the democratic idea. On reflection, I think it may be the very finest thing which could happen to give life to the democratic ideal. Nothing was settled by the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

The people themselves will decide in November what they think about the principle of the third term. It gives to them the democratic opportunity to say, by their ballots, what they think of it.

The nation is fortunate in that the Republican party nominated a man of character and great capability. It so happens all his past history is against many of the principles for which the Democratic party has stood. Yet he has accepted the major principles and if he still supports them in his speech of acceptance and in his campaign, he will make of it a great campaign.

The people will decide the third-term principle. That is democracy.

Meanwhile, the President remains for millions of Americans the symbol of hope for the future. His opponent would do well not to overlook that point. And many of those who fear him and dislike him would do well to remember that it was the exposure of faleness in high places in finance and business which gave Mr. Roosevelt his Governor Confirms Appointment of Successor to C. F. Palmer.

Governor Rivers yesterday confirmed the appointment of Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney and former chairman of the State Board of Regents, as chairman of the Atlanta Housing Authority to succeed C. F. Palmer, who resigned to become housing co-ordinator for the National Defense Advisory Commission.

Mayor Hartsfield appointed Smith to the vacancy upon the resignation of Palmer, but it was necessary for the Governor to confirm this appointment. Mayor Hartsfield said Smith would serve for the unexpired term, which is approximately three years.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Midsummer reflections:
Elderly women with their old-fashioned fans, rocking.
Crape myrtle bushes in full bloom—the nearest color I know to watermelon.
A mockingbird singing in the moonlight, forgetful of wars and politics.
Young people walking along country lanes to protracted meetings.
The splash of trout catching flies on the surface of a quiet lake.
Cows standing under trees beside a stream, dreaming.
Children making palaces with wet sand on their bare feet.
A barefoot boy on his way to the creek with a can of worms and a crooked pole.
A lovely girl doing her hair in tight little curls for the afternoon party.
Ploughmen shaking the dirt from their shoes as the mule turns at the end of the row.
Hogs rooting out cool places in the shade, sighing.
The muffled thump of ripe peaches falling on the ground.
Chickens panting, their wings drooped loosely from their bodies.
The iceman ringing his bell in the street.
The odor of country ham through the house at breakfast time.
The gleam of children's faces when a big watermelon is slashed from stem to bud.
The sparkling diamonds on the grass at break of dawn.
The perfume of corn in tassel, swayed by gentle winds at bedtime.
The song of wood thrush at twilight.
The clink of ice in tall glasses of iced tea.
The cooling feel of fresh linens.
The restful nap in a hammock under a tree.
The grateful nod of flowers refreshed at sunset.
An old man smiling over the comic strips.
The crowd yelling when the runner slides safely home.
Children feeding ducks in the water.
Fluffy dresses.
Mothers cutting flowers for the home.
Fathers bringing baskets of fruit from the orchard.
Thank God for summer.

WPA Skilled Men Will Help Defense Plan

Government Agency To Give Vital Industrial Courses.

Georgia's WPA labor ranks will be searched for skills that will be useful in the national defense program, State Administrator R. L. MacDougall announced yesterday.

Workers whose training and ability fit them for a place in the industrial side of preparedness will be given courses in airplane and tank manufacture, machine shop practice, shipbuilding and repair and similar subjects.

WPA has been lined up for an important part in the training program placed under the supervision of the vocational division of the State Department of Education and the federal office of education. A minimum of half those taking the training courses in Georgia must come from WPA rolls.

Plans have been almost completed to give approximately 800 relief enrollees this summer's initial course. Anticipated total of trainees under the state-federal program will be 1,500.

First group of students will be selected from volunteers from industry who will attend classes in existing vocational and trade schools in their leisure time or through arrangement with their employers. Second group will be requisitioned from WPA rolls. When the relief agency is unable to fill the requisitions in full trainees will be taken from the rolls of the Georgia State Employment Service. Instruction will last about two months.

Discussing the plan MacDougall said:

"The WPA is so set up that it can furnish a large and readily available labor pool for defense purposes. The training program now getting under way will fit men on WPA for key jobs in an emergency."

"This is in keeping with the responsibility of the WPA to maintain and augment the skills of those on its rolls and to assist them to return to private industry as rapidly as possible."

Nutrition Expert Denies White Bread Fattening

POLAND SPRINGS, Maine, July 24—(UP)—White bread is not fattening, contrary to popular opinion, says Dr. James Tobey, nutrition director of the American Institute of Baking.

He explains that no food is fattening in itself but the quantity of any food, including bread, which is consumed regulates fattening qualities. Proper diet, Tobey says, can balance the energy intake with the energy required.

Rivers Frees Two Convicts; Boykin Agrees

Fred Head, Hugh Richardson Win Pardons From Governor.

Two Fulton county convicts yesterday had received pardons from Governor Rivers, both with the approval of Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

They were Fred Head, serving a

10-year sentence for safe blowing, and Hugh Richardson, under sentence of 12 months for auto theft.

Boykin wrote the governor that he had no objections to Fred Head receiving clemency. In the pardon, it was set forth that most of the blame for two safe blowings in Atlanta, in which more than $2,000 was taken, was on Fred's elder brother, Louis Head, who is also under 10-year sentence.

It was pointed out that Head was a model prisoner, and that the warden of the Carroll county prison camp recommended he be pardoned.

Richardson's pardon contained a quotation from Boykin recommending that he be granted a pardon upon the condition he accept and keep a job. Richardson was convicted of violation of the prohibition law prior to entering a plea of guilty to auto theft in May, 1940.

County Authorizes School Bond Tax

Last steps for selling $500,000 worth of recently authorized county school bonds were taken yesterday when the county commissioners adopted a resolution providing for sufficient taxation to retire the indebtedness.

Meeting at the request of Jere Wells, county school superintendent, the commissioners voted to include enough money in future taxes to retire the bonds, but it was pointed out the amounts will not increase the tax levy.

The commissioners also authorized the appointment of Ralph Holland to the police force to replace John Peacock, veteran officer, who retires August 1 at the age of 81 years after 34 years as a policeman.

Byrnes Seeks To Avoid Party Chairman's Post

SPARTANBURG, S. C., July 24. (P)—Senator James F. Byrnes told reporters here today that he had asked party leaders to eliminate him from consideration as a possible choice for national chairman of the Democratic party to succeed James A. Farley, who is soon to retire from the post. Byrnes said he had been approached both at Chicago, where the national convention was held, and at Washington by party leaders but had declined to permit the use of his name for the chairmanship.

Veteran Atlanta Wholesale Grocer Is Given Luncheon Party.

With a royal straight flush dealt before his place and with fishing rods of his favorite type as the center motif of the table, H. L. Singer, Atlanta wholesale grocer, was given a surprise birthday party at noon yesterday in Rich's tearoom celebrating his 70th year.

Mr. Singer's hobbies, it was explained, are playing poker and fishing. Guests at the luncheon, given by his nephew, Joe Singer, were: George Winship, Barney Stodghill, Walter Rich, John Hartley, Donald McKie, Jeff Singer, Tom Daniel, Tom Daniel Jr., E. M. Hudson, W. W. Rushon and Julian Boehm.

Mr. Singer was born in Lumpkin and a cardboard replica of the wooden house in which he was born was on the table. He moved to Eufala, Ala., and from there to Atlanta, establishing his business here about 42 years ago.

City Pays Out $3,675,770 on Debts, Projects

Present Obligations Total $13,698,000; Major Items Listed by West.

During the last three and one-half years the city government has expended $3,675,770 in reduction of the public debt, in public improvements and in purchase of new equipment, City Comptroller B. Graham West reported yesterday.

West reported that the public debt on January 1, 1937, was $14,705,500 and on June 1, 1940, it had been cut to $12,148,000, but in the interim $1,550,000 worth of revenue certificates were issued, pushing the total paper indebtedness back to $13,698,000.

Major Items Listed. Public improvements and purchase of new equipment accounted for $2,557,270, according to West's report to Mayor Hartsfield. Listed among the major items were: dramatization of the cyclorama painting of the Battle of Atlanta, $40,000; waterworks improvements already completed, $700,000; contract for construction of a new city incinerator, $550,000; erection of a control tower at the municipal airport, $30,000; street repairs in co-operation with WPA, $175,000; purchase of new trucks for the construction department, $51,000; purchase of new motor equipment for the sanitary department, $104,000; installation of a city asphalt plant, $11,000.

Purchase of the John A. White park property, $25,000; establishment of the Joel Hurt Memorial park, $60,000; completion of the Proctor creek tunnel as a part of the metropolitan sewer program, $50,000; funds for purchase of new playgrounds throughout the city, $60,000; Battle Hill sanatorium improvements, $33,000; improvements to the municipal auditorium, $47,000; city contribution for a new armory for the National Guard, $35,000.

Financially Sound. West said other improvements and purchases which he did not list accounted for the remaining amounts, and asserted the city has enlarged and increased services to the citizens of Atlanta.

He asserted that the city is in "excellent financial shape and city finances are on a sound economic basis."

"During 1939 and thus far in 1940, the city has operated without having to borrow any money for meeting operating expenses, a record for the past 20 years," West said.

Poll Tax Required Of Non-Voters, Too

Attorney General Ellis Arnall yesterday ruled that Georgia men are subject to state poll taxes whether they vote or not as he pointed out the $1 levy is for support of schools and not merely a prerequisite for participation in state, county and city elections.

All male inhabitants of the state between the ages of 21 and 60 are subject to the tax unless they are blind, the attorney general said. Women who do not register are not subject to the tax, however, he pointed out.

Arnall expressed the opinion that if Georgians understood they are required to pay the poll tax whether they vote or not it might cause more widespread participation in elections.

Mrs. Harlepp Fears For Mate's Safety

Fear over the fate of her husband is mounting daily for comely Mrs. Margaret J. Harlepp, of 746 Boulevard, N. E., as eight weeks have passed now since she last received a letter from him written on the battlefields of France.

He is 31-year-old Roger Harlepp, a native Frenchman who volunteered for service to the homeland when the war broke out and who sailed in February to join his artillery regiment. He held a reserve officer's commission as lieutenant but had applied for American citizenship, though final papers had not been received.

Until the collapse of the French nation, Mrs. Harlepp said she received letters from her husband every week or 10 days, but that her last communication was on June 1. While in Atlanta, Harlepp taught French at Emory University.

Derby Entrants To Have Busy Time in Akron

Fun, Excitement Are on Program for Boys in Soap Box Race.

"What will my boy do in Akron?" is a question nearly every parent asks when his youngster has won the home town Soap Box Derby and is looking forward to participation in the all-American and International Soap Box Derby finals, which this year will be held in Akron on August 11.

During his two days at the derby capital as a guest of Chevrolet Motor division, the home-town champion will do many things—all of them real sport. First, of course, he must arrive, and if he does so by train or plane, he'll know he's in Derby City the moment his conveyance stops. For at station or airport there will be an official Soap Box Derby bus to meet him. These Chevrolet buses, the traveling field offices of the derby, visit many of the home towns during the summer, and converge on Akron for the big event.

When the "champ" arrives at the huge hotel that is taken over from basement to roof to serve as derby headquarters, he registers as a matter of course. At that time he receives his official street garb, a complete race driver's outfit—official derby jersey and red, white and blue Derby cap, which bears on it the number of the squad to which the champ is assigned. If he is named a squad leader—captain of a band of derbyists from many different cities—his cap bears a rosette with squad number.

Next the youngster registers in the hotel, where clerk and bell-boy alike greet him with "Welcome, Champ!" He is then shown to his room, which he will share with a rival racer during the two exciting days.

Friday preceding the race, the champ is allowed to make his own program to some extent, and derby officials co-operate in outlining plans and programs. Friday evening, however, sees all the champions meeting together for the first time, to learn about their schedules for the next two days. An entertainment designed especially for boys is scheduled at that time. "Lights out" at 10 o'clock.

Next morning comes another group meeting with the champions given instruction concerning Derby Downs, and tips on the best way to handle their cars in the race. After luncheon, buses take the boys to the track itself, where each boy drives his own car down in a safety run, to acquaint him with the course.

1939 Soap Box Winner Broke All Course Marks
Clifford Hardesty, White Plains, N. Y., set a new speed record at the All-American Soap Box Derby finals in Akron, Ohio, last year, in the course of his repeated trips down the hill which led him into the finals, where he emerged as victor. The young driver broke all course records and set a pace that will be hard to beat.

Soap Box Derby Finals To Be on National Chain
The 1940 All-American Soap Box Derby finals will be broadcast over national radio chains direct from Derby Downs, Akron, Ohio, scene of the national and international finals. Widely known sports commentators will broadcast for the various chains.

Group Studies Putting Autos' 'Home' on Tags

Plan for Classifying Cars as to Location Will Be Discussed.

Ways and means of marking Georgia license tags so the home of the car may be identified at a glance will be discussed at a meeting called for Friday afternoon, August 2.

The Atlanta Convention and Visitors' Bureau, sponsors of the meeting, have been considering classification of tags according to locality for several years. The idea has been well received and has the endorsement of law enforcement agencies, but so far no practical method of carrying the plan through has been developed.

Named to consider the question are Wiley L. Moore Jr., state Senator Everett G. Millican, Hal Smith, past president Atlanta Automobile Dealers' Association; Charlie Bishop, secretary-manager Atlanta Motor Club, and Faber A. Bollinger, executive vice president of the convention bureau.

Proponents of the plan point out that it has the obvious advantage of enabling law enforcement officers to spot the home of cars driven by criminals and would aid in the recovery of stolen automobiles. The system has been successful in other states, notably Kentucky, whose license tags carry the name of the car owner's county.

E. T. Williams, chief clerk in charge of the state tag division, said yesterday he was thoroughly in accord with the idea, but that "it is utterly impossible under our present system."

He explained that Georgia tags are now divided into approximately 100 classifications, by weight and type of vehicle, and to further classify them would "complicate things even more, especially our accounting department."

Chicken Thief Records Visits, Number Taken

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 24.—Sheriff Walter Folger is looking for a chicken thief with a frustrated "business" complex. Lawrence Lepper reported to the sheriff that his hen house has been raided six times. Each time the thief keeps his "record" straight by marking the number of his visit and the number of fowls taken on the wall of the hen house.

To Atlantan's Who Have Co-operated With The Soap Box Derby We Say

THANK YOU

Saturday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. The Atlanta and North Georgia finals for the 1940 Soap Box Derby will get under way at the Derby location on Northside Drive.

We are very proud of the fact that we as Chevrolet dealers co-sponsor this great event with The Constitution. Its success for the past seven years has been nothing short of phenomenal—and today is considered the greatest amateur racing event in the world.

To parents and the Atlanta merchants we say, Thank You. The part you have played has been most important, and went a long way towards helping our boys learn to play instead of being a soldier for some foreign power.

Derby Downs Called Unique Sports Center

Special Course in Akron Designed for Soap Box Races.

Derby Downs, in Akron, Ohio, site of the national finals of the All-American Soap Box Derby, has become a unique sports center since its construction for the 1936 running of the seven-year-old "world's greatest amateur racing event."

When Chevrolet Motor Division and 34 of the country's leading newspapers first co-sponsored a national finals in 1934, the race was run off in Dayton, Ohio. The following year, Akron was selected, and the race was run on Tallmadge Hill there. Akron officials evinced such interest in the Derby, a movement was begun to provide a special course, specifically designed for Derby racing.

Near the Akron airport, one of the largest and finest municipal ports in the country, was a suitable hill. A concrete track was constructed in a "cut" whose sides would accommodate grandstands and bleachers for a large crowd. More than 100,000 persons saw the race in 1939. The nearby airport afforded ample parking space.

Since the downs is the only hill of its kind, it is worthy of detailed description. The course is laid 30 feet wide, without crown, and measuring more than 1,100 feet between the start and the finish lines. From its greatest grade near the top, it levels out gently toward the bottom. Joints between the concrete slabs are ground smooth to eliminate bumps. There are ample gutters at either side to carry off a cloudburst, if necessary.

At the top of the course is a large, level paved area, where entries are lined up for their heats. The service pits, for greasing and last-minute adjustment, adjoin this area. At the finish line, there is a double-decked steel bridge, to accommodate judges, newsmen, radio announcers, and derby officials.

FIRST AID AT HAND—Just in case something goes wrong, this especially fitted trailer first aid station and Nurse Etoile Grier will be on hand at the finals Saturday.

The trailer, fully equipped, is furnished by the Burns Trailer Mart and is used through the courtesy of Major Burns, the president.

RACE TIMERS—Here are the men who will time the racers as they flash down the track. Jim Broadus (left) and Charles Bishop (right) are members of the south-eastern zone A. A. A. contest board.

Miss Frances Steele, assistant to the director of the division of employment, Georgia WPA, has been named assistant to Miss Sybil Foster, head of the United States Committee for the Care of Refugee Children.

Miss Steele was granted leave from her job by State Administrator Robert L. MacDougall and left for New York Tuesday. During her absence her job will be filled by Miss Rose Marie Smith.

Savannah Labor Office Places 2,750 in Jobs

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 24.—(AP) The Savannah office of the Employment Service Division of the State Department of Labor found 2,750 jobs for unemployed men and women in this area in the first six months of 1940, Frank A. Dolan, local manager, announced.

During this same period, Dolan said 3,861 persons registered for work. A total of 9,761 workers are now registered at the employment office.

Year's Thrills Culminate in Derby Finals

Big Race Has Grown From 34 Cities to Total of 100.

The thrills and excitement that are crowded into one day when the All-American Soap Box Derby finals are held in Akron, Ohio, next August 11 culminate a year's work on the part of hundreds of men in scores of different occupations.

A program that extends clear around the calendar—beginning virtually the day after the finals have been held, and ending with the big race the following year—is required to assure smooth functioning of every individual connected with the operation of the race itself.

For example, Chevrolet motor division, which co-sponsors the Soap Box Derby with the nation's leading newspapers, details one man to handle the many elements that must be fused to create the derby. He is J. P. Gormley, national director of the race, and a sincere friend of boys.

Under Gormley's direction, the derby has grown from a race in which 34 cities were represented in 1934 to a nation-wide event in which more than 100 cities' champions will vie for the national crown this year.

When the big race has been run off, the derby is "over" as far as its participants are concerned. But, within a few days, plans are under way for the race the following year. Perhaps the first time the derby again appears in the news, however, comes during the big New York auto show, when motor car manufacturers introduce their new year's models.

At the show, the derby has held a prominent place, with an exhibit of winning cars, photos from the national finals, and special displays. Usually, the newly-crowned champion pays a visit to Grand Central Palace and is a guest of honor at the derby booth.

Still later in the fall comes the meeting of the various technical committees, whose duty it is to review the past race and plan for the next one.

Meeting in Detroit, the national contest board and the national newspaper advisory committee draw delegates from all corners of the country. The former group is composed of widely-known personalities connected with popular technical and scientific publications. The latter group is made up of newspapermen from such representative cities as Atlanta, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Flint, Mich., Boston, and Detroit. These men, thoroughly familiar with the business of staging home town races, are well qualified to suggest improvements in the derby program for the individual cities.

Hot Weather Proves Boon to Georgia Crops

Sun Aids Cotton, Tobacco, Long Beset by Rains.

The current hot dry weather is proving a boon to Georgia crops long beset by heavy rains, the Weather Bureau said yesterday. In a synopsis of weather and crop conditions for the past seven days, conditions since last week-end were reported favorable for cotton, tobacco curing, truck crops, peanuts, late varieties of peaches and sugar cane.

Cotton stands, however, still displayed damaging effects of the protracted rainy spell earlier this month, the bureau noted in pointing to a sappy condition of plants, increased boll weevil propagation and weedy fields.

Condition of the crop as a whole was described as "now fair to good."

Corn was reported in "excellent" condition except on poorly drained land, where standing water brought considerable harm. Weeds which enjoyed flush growth during the wet weather have hampered growth and retarded cultivation of the sweet potato crop, the bureau said.

Most watermelon producing areas were said to be too wet. The last week of peach harvesting is being done in the Fort Valley section.

C. D. Montgomery To Mark Birthday

Charles D. Montgomery, pioneer Atlantan and grand old man of the Central Presbyterian church in which he has held every office open to a layman, will celebrate his 89th birthday today at the home of his nephew, Dr. Hugh M. Lokey, at 256 Fourteenth street.

Mr. Montgomery came to Atlanta in 1873 to enter the mercantile business here, and has since been an active figure in the business life of the city. In that same year he joined the Central Presbyterian church, and on the occasion of his 87th birthday, which marked his 65th year of membership, was presented with a scroll as "one who has served his Lord and his fellowman faithfully and well."

FARM INCOME RISES. WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today cash farm income from marketing and government payments in June totaled $587,000,000 as against $583,000,000 in June, 1939.

Talking with the folks who ride taxicabs, you get some pretty interesting slants on life. And right now there's a lot of thinking about what a swell country this is we live in.

Take this Soap Box Derby, for instance. Here's half a hundred kids, maybe, busy building a gadget on four wheels to coast down a hill. And having the time of their lives doing it, and maybe winning a big prize.

Compare that with the poor little kids in England, parked out in the country, or taking ship for America. But scared, not knowing what's coming next. Or the kids in the dictator countries, who know pretty well what's coming: They are going to be trained as first-class robots.

Go out and take a look at that Soap Box Derby yourself. It's a real thrill to see that great crowd lining the roadway. Not to see a conquering "hero" ride down in his bomb-proof chariot. But just to watch a bunch of swell, healthy American kids compete against each other in the clean, sporting American way.

That's America out there, the real America, the America we want to keep like it is.

For America's Boys at Their Best

Be Sure to See the

ALL-AMERICAN SOAP BOX DERBY

Saturday---2:00 o'clock---on Northside Drive

For a Grade A exhibit of Americanism in action, be sure to see the Soap Box Derby tomorrow.

Look over the racing cars. None of them cost much. You'll marvel at the skill and craftsmanship of the boys who built them. You'll re-capture the spirit and enthusiasm of your early youth when you see the boys hurriedly making last-minute adjustments to their racers. Your hands will itch to help them; and as they start down the incline, you'll feel as though you were riding with each boy—helping him with everything that's in you to win.

It will thrill you to see what grand sportsmen these youngsters are. Every one is out to win—that's as it should be—but there's always a good word for the loser and a "good going" salute for the winner. They're all such swell sports that you'll have a hard time picking your favorite.

Yes, there's fun, thrills, excitement all the way. It's a great day for the boys, and a great day for you, too. You'll remember the skill, the courage, and the good sportsmanship of these boys long after the race is over.

Chevrolet and your local Chevrolet dealer are proud to join with this great newspaper in sponsoring the Soap Box Derby. It's an event of, by and for boys, but it's a problem to know who has the best time—the youngsters or the grown-ups who cheer them on.

Our city will have a new champion tomorrow. He'll represent us at the National and International Finals. Won't you come out tomorrow and let him know you're pulling for him to win the national title and the grand prize—a four-year college scholarship.

For the Champion

THE M. E. COYLE
TROPHY

The All-American Soap Box Derby, now in its seventh year, has won national and international recognition as one of the greatest character-building competitions for boys. The M. E. Coyle Trophy, awarded to the champion in each of the one hundred and thirty cities where races are held, is a symbol of the qualities of sportsmanship, resourcefulness, and perseverance which the Soap Box Derby is designed to promote. . . . At Akron, Ohio, August 11, the champions from one hundred and thirty cities will compete in the All-American and International Finals.

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—The bond market leaned heavily upon the foreign dollar group for price changes today as domestic loans remained in a narrow range and mixed trend.

Brokers said intensification of the struggle between England and Germany had created considerable more attention in foreign issues than had been shown since the capitulation of France. The conflicting price trends in the group followed closely the general pattern of the war news.

Domestic closing higher by fractions to around a point included Pennsylvania Railroad 4 1-2s at 103, Shell Union 2 1-2s at 96 3-4, American Telephone 3 1-4s at 108 1-4, Bethlehem Steel 3 2s at 106 1-4 and Continental 2 1 3-4s at 97 3-4.

Governments closed down 132 to 11-32 of a point on total sales or less than $100,000, par value.

Turnover of all bonds aggregated $3,628,700, par value, compared with $3,503,200 on Tuesday.

Says News Is What Interests Most "Men on the Street."

What is news? Whatever interests people. The more people it interests the better the story.

Best story of the week—as this is written—is that one about the prisoner at the federal penitentiary who climbed to the top of a tall water tower, spent a torrid afternoon and a long night there—and came down next morning.

Hitler that day was renewing his threats of a blitzkrieg which would bring Britain to her knees. President Roosevelt was giving the Willkie supporters a few reverse compliments. The nation was sweltering and sweating under near-record temperatures.

But the best story in the papers Wednesday morning was about Andrew Jackson Wynne, 20, who climbed that 100-foot tower, for no well-considered reason, waved his shirt at an assembled multitude and gave promise of outlasting—or standing—all the flagpole sitters of official record.

Deplores Descent.

As a newspaperman, I deplore Mr. Wynne's coming down next morning. A story like that grows in interest, day by day—for just so many days or until a better story bobs up.

I can see it in my mind's eye. Heroic young convict, defying the world. Torrid sun. No water. No food. Perched on a steel tank as hot as the fiery furnace of Holy Writ. Infuriated warden. Baffled guards. Special staff writers, newsreel men, sob sisters of the New York press, arriving by special plane. Eyes and ears of the nation intent upon the fortunes of Andrew Jackson Wynne.

But he had to spoil it all by coming down early next morning. Like a cat who once lived next door to us and spent a long rainy night up our favorite pine tree, wailing and weeping and making night hideous. Just as I was about to call a hook-and-ladder company to the rescue the cat decided to come down. Which he did.

The 'Silly Season.'

There is a newspaper tradition that hot midsummer is the "silly season," when a perspiring public wants to cast aside all serious thought and read piffle if the piffle carries enough human interest.

Such a story—just a brief item but wisely placed on the front page—was about a pointer dog down in Leesburg who got his feet stuck in a hot asphalt pavement and was dug out by a passing Negro. If the convict-on-the-tower story hadn't overshadowed it we'd probably have checked up on that dog's name and ancestry and Bill Mason would have flown down and shot a few pictures—even if he had to put the dog back into the asphalt.

Recently I read with interest a book by Laurence Greene entitled "The Era of Wonderful Nonsense," a title suggested by Westbrook Pegler. It reviewed outstanding newspaper stories of the past 20 years or so. Included was the dog hero, Balto, who led the sled team which carried the serum to Nome; the trapping of Floyd Collins in that Kentucky cave; Mencken's stories of the Scopes trial in Dayton, Tenn., where Darrow and Bryan fought their battle over fundamentalism—and a score of others.

Only a few stories reviewed were of prime importance. But they were—at the time—of immense public interest.

I'll bet that at one period ten times as many people could tell you all about "Peaches" Brown, the old man's darling, than could tell you, offhand, the name of the vice president of the United States.

Four Little Stories.

The great Joseph Pulitzer who built the old New York World into one of the nation's most important newspapers is said to have expounded his news policy somewhat as follows:

"Give me four little stories on the first page very day.

"A story about money. Big money. Jewel robbery, million-dollar deal, huge salary. Everybody's interested in money.

"A story about animals. Preferably a dog, but a tiger in the zoo will do. Most readers like animals.

"A story about a baby. Tiny tot lost, drowned, swallowed a safety pin—anything. Everybody except cranky old bachelors loves babies.

"A story about love. Romantic elopement, a divorce, a human triangle with a broken-hearted wife. All the world is interested in that."

If Mr. Pulitzer could outline his news value ideas today he'd insert in that last specification "sex." But sex, in Pulitzer's day, was mentioned only by biologists.

"Give me those four front-page stories," said Mr. Pulitzer, "and the rest of the paper will take care of itself."

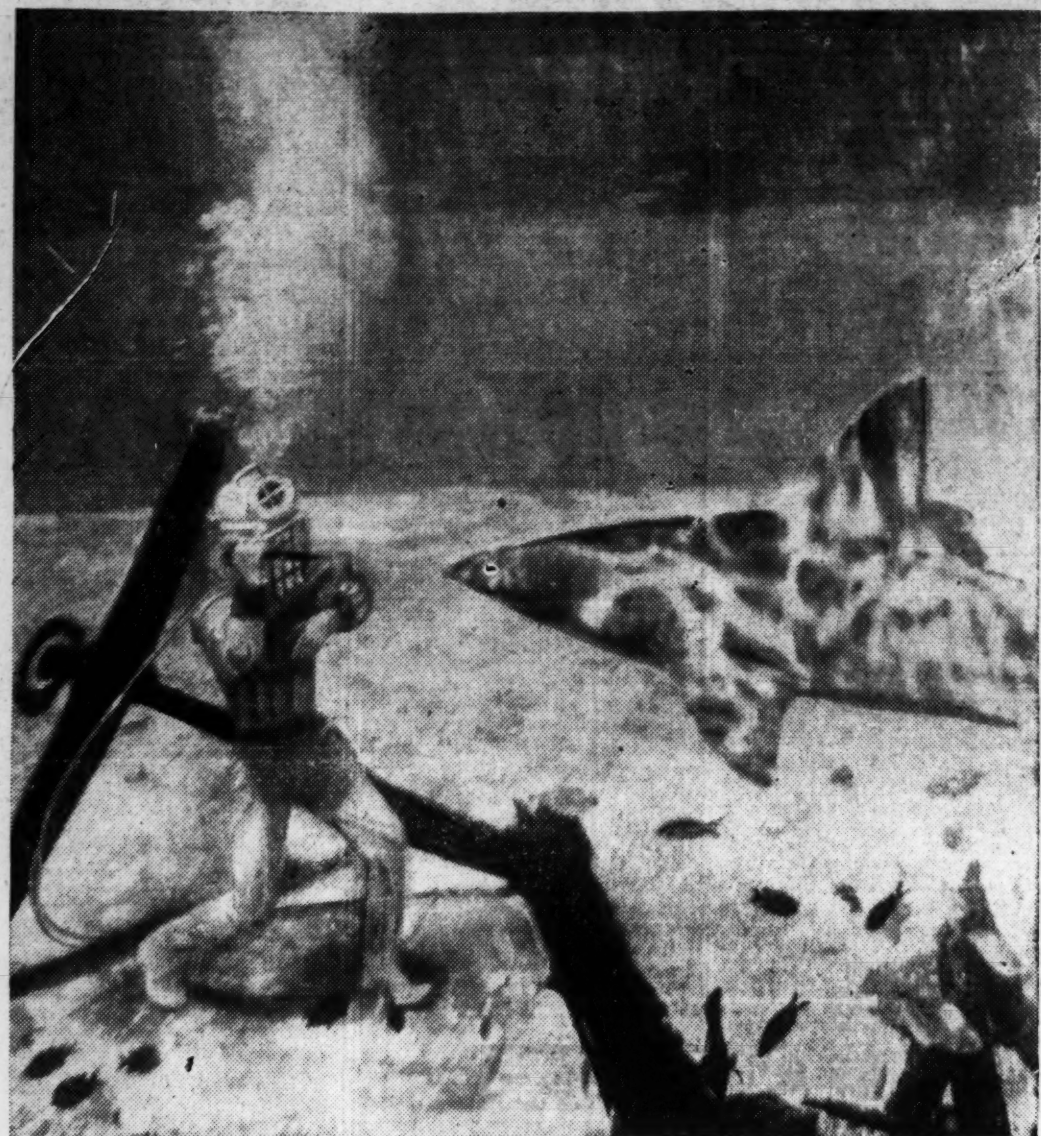

"But what of congress and Wall Street and international politics and really important things?" some daring staff man inquired.

"I naturally expect my staff to cover those completely and intelligently," returned the publisher. "They are important and informative. But they're staple groceries. Our competitors will handle them equally well—or nearly so. Our readers will expect adequate and accurate coverage."

"But they'd rather read about Queen, the lioness of the Bronx zoo, giving birth to triplets."

How Joseph Pulitzer, if he had lived, would have reveled in the Dionne quint! And that, by the way, overshadowed every story of that year I can recall.

Want a Chill? Then Meet a Shark

COOL Yes, there's one place in Dixie that's cool—the swishing depths of Marineland's studios, in Florida. Especially chilling is it when a diver, like Bill Zeiler here, encounters a huge shark deep in the pool.

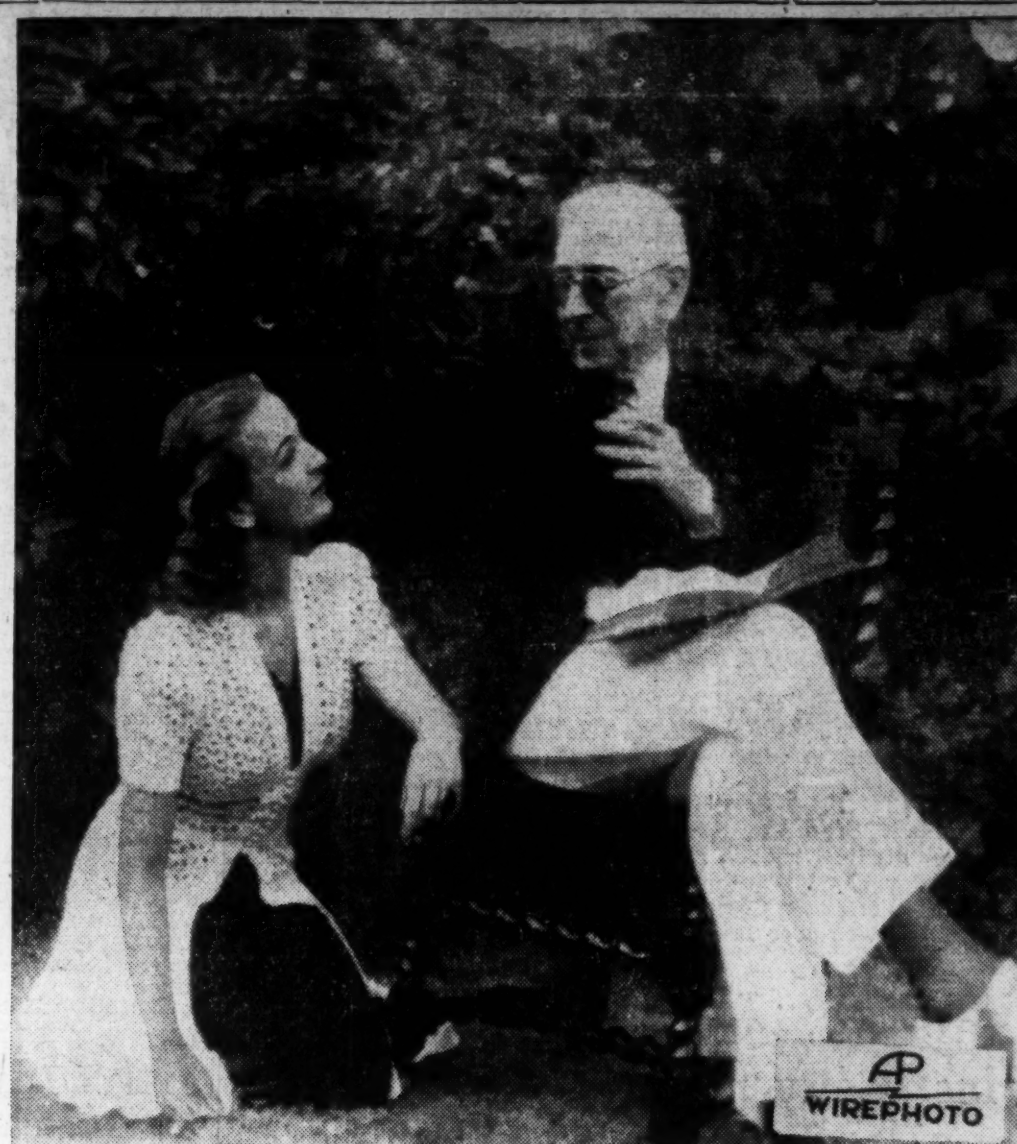

WHOOPEE! Straw skimmer in hand, in striking contrast to the western multi-gallon toppers surrounding him, Wendell Willkie salutes the crowds. Wyoming Governor Smith stands behind him.

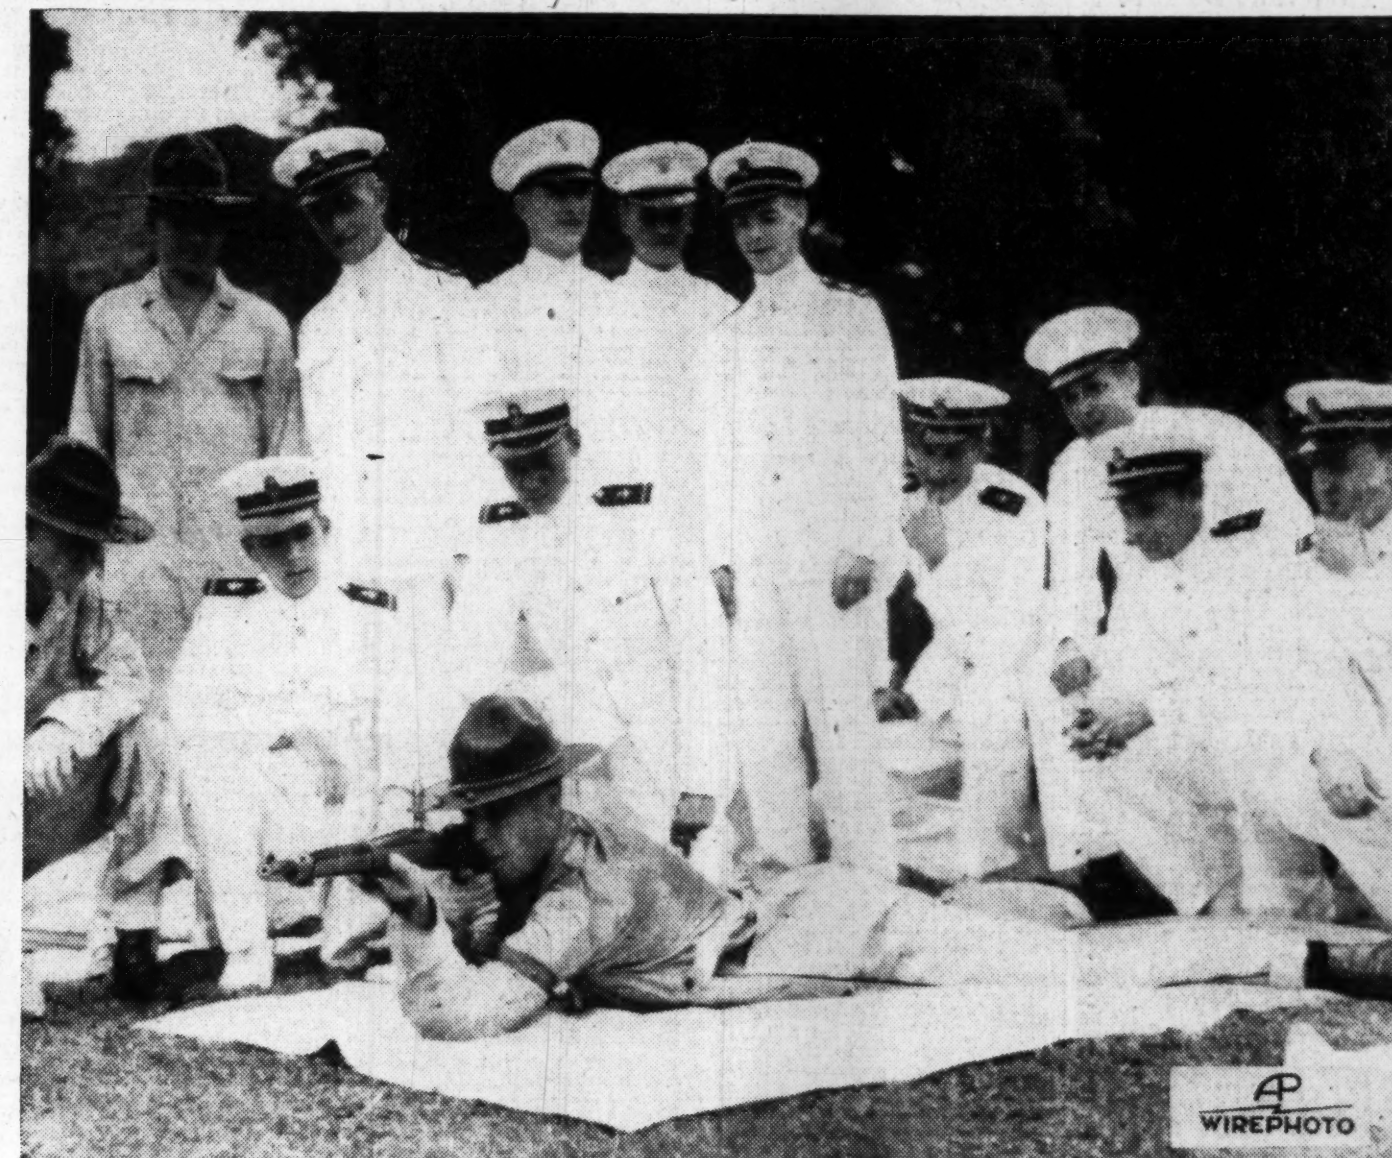

PHILIPPINE MAINSTAY One of the stoutest bulwarks in the Philippine national defense program, faced with unsettled and threatening conditions in the Orient, is its Reserve Officers Training Corps. Here we see native Filipino lads getting their lessons in the art of running an army of natives. And as the courageous youngsters march below, Philippine army planes snore protectively overhead.

71 It will soon be "Seventeen" in reverse for Booth Tarkington, the far-famed Indiana author, who will observe his 71st birthday Monday. Here the noted writer goes over some lines with Karen Van Ryn, of the Garrick Players, who will emote the lead in "Karabash," one of Tarkington's plays, at the Kennebunkport, Maine, playhouse.

MIDDIES lend a watchful eye as an army plebe demonstrates his marksmanship at West Point. The white-uniformed midshipmen of the Naval Academy visited West Point on an annual coastal cruise.

WHET TALONS Shadowed by the specter of a Japan which seeks to dominate the entire Orient, these Philippine military trainees give their equipment an intensive going over—just in case.

Labor Charges Work Denied To Skilled Men

Youth Training Program Attacked as Being Inadequate.

Asserting that the national defense program has given rise to much propaganda about the alleged shortage of skilled labor, the executive committee of the Georgia Federation of Labor yesterday released resolutions charging that "skilled mechanics are being denied employment because of arbitrary age limits set by employers, who prefer schoolboys at low wages to skilled mechanics at a proper wage level."

The board's action, released by Dewey L. Johnson, president, and Miss Allie Mann, secretary-treasurer of the federation, set out a four-point program for which the organization will strive, and added that many "employed under the guise of 'youth training' have demoralized industry by building an organization of youth who are not equipped to produce necessary protection for our national defense."

Four-Point Program.

The four-point program, emphasized in the resolution, provides for giving opportunity for skilled workers now deprived of employment in their crafts to return to their jobs, without regard to their age, but only to their ability and qualification to perform efficient service; for retention and building of vocational schools as such, not allowing them to become trade schools which will place poorly trained, inexperienced youths in competition with trained, experienced workers; for co-operation with the federal committee on apprentice training to insure a program of legitimate apprentice training, and for seeking representation of organized labor on all councils and committees dealing with the national defense program.

A preamble to the resolutions pointed out that the committee realizes the danger to workers of misinterpreting the national defense program, that there are 10,000,000 unemployed in the United States and that many of them are skilled workers.

It set out that education for today's living should be a long process, without cutting service years at the older end of the line, which makes old age pensions necessary.

Stressing that labor approves vocational schools as generally understood, the preamble pointed out that emphasis should be placed on theories and on understanding the process of physics and chemistry, but that labor does not approve of brief and superficial training which brings no honor to the crafts.

F. D. R. Victory Seen by Robert On Visit Here

Secretary on Tour of Dixie To Consult Party Leaders.

L. W. (Chip) Robert, secretary of the Democratic national committee, yesterday arrived in Atlanta on the first leg of a tour of all southern states to contact party leaders with regard to the national campaign.

"I think the ticket will win without question," he said, "but we all know we have a fight on our hands. This will require the best efforts of all men and women in the party. I hope to be able to visit party leaders in all the southern states and obtain some idea of what campaign plans will be needed in the south."

"I feel sure the south will remain in the Democratic column but we must look into the expansive effort being made by the Republicans to create some dissatisfaction in the south."

Secretary Robert said that on his return to Washington from the Chicago convention, he found opposition to Wallace fast disappearing.

"There will be some elements of opposition to Wallace in different sections of the country," he said. "But Wallace is recognized by all who know him as an honest, capable official who is not afraid to speak out on public questions and who is not, as some of the critics say, anything resembling a 'yes' man."

"At a luncheon in Washington I talked with a half dozen senators, including Senators Wheeler, Herring and others from the west. They all were enthusiastic in their support of Wallace. I think it may work out that he was the fortunate choice instead of an unfortunate one, as many believed at the time of the convention."

Secretary Robert said that Chairman Jim Farley will remain as head of the New York committee and possibly would make a few speeches for the national ticket. Robert will remain in Atlanta through Friday.

Accused Munich Plotter Is Captured by Himmler

BERLIN, July 24.—(P)—Otto Strasser, arch foe of Nazism whom Heinrich Himmler has accused of organizing the Munich bomb plot against Adolf Hitler's life, and Herschel Grynszpan, the young German-Polish Jew whose act of assassination precipitated the November, 1938, anti-Semitic riots in Germany have fallen into Nazi hands in Paris, a well-informed German source said today. Grynszpan was found in La Sante prison, awaiting trial for killing Ernst vom Rath, a German diplomat, in the latter's Paris office November 7, 1938.

Police, Firemen Must Pay Tax To See Movies

Uncle Sam Lets Them in Free Only If They Are on Duty.

By LEE ROGERS.

The tall thin man with the whiskers is playing no favorites with his nephews—policemen and firemen. They must pay the tax before they can get in the motion picture theaters, even as you.

In other words, Uncle Samuel doesn't care if the patron is a cop or a fire-eater, he's got to pay for the protection of national defense. And that goes for the boys in the army, the marines, the navy and the CCC as well.

However, there is one exception. Policemen or firemen assigned to theaters on official business—to preserve order or prevent fire hazards—go in free. That, too, is part of defense.

J. H. Butler, of the Georgia Internal Revenue collector's office, explained a wide latitude is provided, though in determining the number of policemen and firemen needed for protection. That would be up to the police chief, the fire chief and the theater managers.

Excepting on special occasions, though, Uncle Sam will expect the off-duty officers to enter in the spirit of the national defense plan and pay the tax, it was pointed out.

Butler said the mere fact a policeman or a fireman had on a uniform did not mean he was on duty, and to get in an amusement house without paying the tax, he's got to be on duty.

Theater managers were first in-

RCA Victor Men Attend Banquet

More than 400 of RCA Victor's Georgia dealers attended a banquet last night on the roof of a downtown hotel.

Feature of the meeting was the display of the new RCA Victor line of radios and victrolas. Principal speakers were D. J. Finn, of Camden N. J. and J. W. Cooke, district manager.

Lewis F. Gordon, vice president of the Citizens & Southern National Bank served as toastmaster and master of ceremonies.

C. N. Walker Removed From Party Group

City Democratic Committee Declares Candidate's Post Vacant.

Charles N. Walker, sixth ward member of the city Democratic executive committee, last night was stripped of his post when he insisted that he remain on the committee while running for another political position—council from the sixth ward.

The other five members of the committee voted to declare Walker's post vacant in accordance with a rule adopted by the committee in 1935.

An opinion by City Attorney Jack C. Savage informed committee members they should enforce the rule.

Refers to Osburn.

Walker assailed what he said was "an effort to kick me off this committee when you allowed James T. Osburn, who then was chairman, to run for a council position and retain his membership."

L. Glenn Dewberry, committee secretary, and others insisted that they made a mistake in keeping Osburn at that time, asserting "we made one mistake and took a lot of justified criticism for making it, and we don't think we should be called upon to make a similar mistake."

Osburn, who was vice chairman of the present group, resigned this year soon after he qualified for a council job in the forthcoming September 4 primary.

Refuses to Resign.

When Savage's letter was read, Walker told his fellow committee members they could "kick" him off if they wanted to, but that he would not resign.

Under the rules, the committee must fill all vacancies pending an election, but this action was deferred until a later date, apparently awaiting any steps Walker may take to have himself reinstated.

Cunard Liner Sunk, 500 Men Reported Dead

Lancastria Torpedoed in French Evacuation, New York Hears.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(P)—The New York Sun says it has learned that the Cunard White Star liner Lancastria, which once was in cruise service from New York to the West Indies, was sunk with a loss of 500 men during the evacuation of Allied soldiers from France.

(In their Wednesday morning column in The Constitution Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner disclosed for the first time that the Lancastria had been lost by the British. They also said the Georgic and the Franconic had been sunk.)

The 16,243-ton British liner picked up 6,000 soldiers at Brest and was preparing to sail when German planes scored three hits on her with aerial torpedoes, says the Sun.

Survivors were machinegunned as they took to lifeboats, it adds, but all except 500 were saved.

Duchess' First Husband's Wife Given Divorce

Wife Charges That When He Got Drunk, He Spoke Chinese.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 24.—(P)—Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson Spencer was awarded a divorce today from Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, United States navy, retired, after she testified the first husband of the Duchess of Windsor had been guilty of habitual intemperance and cruelty.

Mrs. Spencer, the widow of a Detroit manufacturer whom Spencer married three years ago, said the naval officer went on week-long binges and that she was forced to lock him out of their home because she feared for her life.

On such occasions, she added, he was "really a mental case." Her daughters by a previous marriage, Mrs. Kathryn Wade and Mrs. Betty Legarr, testified that when he became intoxicated Spencer would speak Chinese.

2 Pawnbrokers Fined In Recorder's Court

Two pawnbrokers were fined $10 and costs each in recorder's court by Judge A. W. Callaway for alleged violation of the city ordinance requiring all dealers in second-hand goods to register purchases with the police department daily.

Those fined were listed by police as L. B. Adams, of a Piedmont avenue address, and Wilson Adams, of an Edgewood avenue, N. E., address. The arrest was made by Detectives A. B. McNaughton and Sam Dillingham.

Details of Food Stamp Buying Are Announced

Plan To Aid Needy Was Originated by Henry A. Wallace.

Details of the stamp plan to provide tables of the poor—a plan originated by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to supply the hungry from national food surpluses through existing private business channels—and which will be put into effect in Atlanta and Fulton county August 1, were announced yesterday by Philip J. Fischer, program organizer for the Agriculture Department.

He estimated that 15,000 heads of families had been certified by the county board of public welfare, affecting about 60,000 persons.

As the stamp plan goes into effect, employing ordinary channels of trade and local grocery stores, the free distribution of surplus foods in bulk will be discontinued. More people will receive such supplies under the stamp plan, it was pointed out.

More Fresh Vegetables. More fresh vegetables, butter, and eggs will become available to homes where they have been known in but scanty quantities for years. The present listing of surplus foods include rice, pork, butter, raisins, cornmeal, eggs, corn, carrots, beans, snap beans, lima beans, tomatoes, cabbage, lard, flour, grits, prunes, oranges and dried beans.

Two types of stamps, orange and blue, will be issued from the headquarters, 245 Pryor street, to certified persons. The orange stamps will be redeemable in any type of foodstuffs, while the blue stamps, given free in amounts one-half of the purchase of orange stamps, will call for surplus commodities.

A detailed statement of the plan and its application to individuals was issued. It said: "There will be three methods of distributing food order stamps in Atlanta and Fulton county according to different types of public assistance received. These three plans are:

"Persons working on WPA projects, who maintain a household, will be given free blue food order stamps provided they purchase orange food order stamps at the rate of $1.50 per week per member of family for small families and a minimum rate of $1 or maximum rate of $1.50 per week per member of family for larger families. (Except that no case is required to spend for orange stamps more than 50 per cent of the income.) With each dollar's worth of orange stamps so purchased they will receive free 50 cents worth of blue surplus food order stamps.

Receive Assistance. "Persons who receive old age assistance, aid to blind or aid to dependent children and also who maintain a household, will receive free blue food order stamps provided they purchase orange stamps at the rate of $6 per month per member of family for small families and $4 per month per member of family for larger families. (Except that no case is required to spend for orange stamps more than approximately 50 per cent of the income.) With each dollar's worth of orange stamps purchased they will receive free 50 cents worth of blue food order stamps. Each member of family for whom no orange stamps were purchased will be given free blue food order stamps at the rate of $2 per month; (a) persons on WPA projects, or waiting assignment cases (persons certified for WPA work but who are not now actually employed on WPA projects) and direct relief cases and also who maintain a household, will be given free blue food order stamps provided they purchase orange stamps at a rate approximating the amount formerly spent for food, and in accordance with the Fulton county department of public welfare food budget estimate for the family.

"Every book of orange stamps purchased contains 50 per cent additional free blue stamps. Each member of family for whom no orange stamps were purchased will be given free blue food order stamps at the rate of $2 per month; (b) persons in these groups who are certified as unable to purchase orange stamps will be given free blue food order stamps at the rate of $2 per month for each member of the family.

Warden Denies Dying Convict Beaten at Camp

Clay Calls Testimony of W. A. Staffins 'a Damned Lie.'

Warden A. W. Clay, of the "Little Alcatraz" prison camp at Dallas, Ga., yesterday termed "a damned lie" the testimony of W. A. Staffins, of Atlanta, that his son, Paul, a dying convict, had told him of being beaten severely at the camp.

"I had a guard ride in the ambulance to Atlanta with the prisoner and members of his family," Clay said. "A guard also stayed at his side at Grady hospital until he died. The boy didn't tell his father or anybody else he'd been beaten or mistreated."

Clay declared the camp physician was away on vacation but that a statement from him would be obtained for Chairman Grover C. Byars, of the State Board of Penal Corrections who Tuesday at the father's request, ordered a probe of the 18-year-old convict's death.

The warden placed at six the number of prisoners there who have broken their legs by hooking an ankle under the end of a cot and rolling off.

Byars said yesterday his investigation was proceeding quietly but effectively.

Rev. Gardner, Baptist Pastor, Succumbs at 36

Young Minister Filled Pulpit of College Park Church.

The Rev. W. Tillman Gardner, pastor of the Live Oak Gardens Baptist church at College Park, died at his home near that community Tuesday night after an illness of a year. He was 36.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Elizabeth; his father and mother, Mrs. Rosa Lee Gardner and Walt Gardner, of East Point; three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Williams, of Miami; Mrs. W. O. McGee, of Oakland City, Atlanta; Mrs. Ras Hood, of Atlanta; and two brothers, J. L. and A. J. Gardner, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Howard Carmichael. The Rev. J. M. Stallings, the Rev. P. C. James and the Rev. Marcus Gray will officiate. Burial will be in the Baptist cemetery at Fairburn.

The Rev. Mr. Gardner had been pastor of the Live Oak Gardens church since he entered the ministry three years ago. He was for 15 years an employee of the Rhodes-Wood Furniture Company, and for the past year had worked at the East Point Furniture Company until ill health, growing out of a glandular illness for which no cure is known, forced his resignation three months ago.

"BLIND STAGGERS." MONTEZUMA, Ga., July 24.—Cullen Richardson, Montezuma business man, lost one mule Monday and two Tuesday on his farm near here from what is generally known as "blind staggers." The mule was caused, it was said, by the mules eating hay on a concrete floor which had become water-soaked by defective drainage, producing a botulinus toxin which caused motor paralysis. A fourth mule, partially paralyzed, was given anti-toxin and may recover.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acid and out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frigorous or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Wife's Laughter and Gaiety Change As Husband Changes Toward Her

By Caroline Chatfield.

A friend of mine riding in a taxi the other day was startled by the driver's turning around and asking her to "look at that pretty girl on the corner." With a beaming face he added, "That's my wife and I think she's the prettiest woman in the world."

My friend, being a woman, was delighted at the enthusiasm of the young husband; so she gave him a lead and let him run: "You love her, don't you?" "I loved her the first time I ever saw her. She was sitting on a porch and something told me she was for me. We were married in two weeks and we have been happy ever since. Everybody loves her. She's one of these people you can't help loving." "She must have a sweet disposition," said my friend. "Yes, she's good natured and she's happy hearted. She can always find something to laugh about. No matter how much trouble we have, she sees a funny side of it. She can laugh off troubles."

"You should be very thankful for a wife with a sense of humor," said my friend, "and you shouldn't do anything to destroy it."

"What do you mean?" he asked, somewhat puzzled. "I couldn't kill her sense of humor. She was born with it."

"Oh, yes. You are the only one who can kill it. A girl can laugh and be gay when her husband adores her and is proud of her. She can see the bright side of any situation but her laughter doesn't come so easily when her husband changes toward her. Your wife will laugh just as long as you let her laugh."

"Maybe," said my friend. "It was a bit thick for the young taxi-driver but he was so much interested in the conversation that he ran several blocks beyond our destination. When I got out of the cab he raised his hat and said, 'Thank you, lady. I won't forget what you've told me.'"

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Next, Maureen O'Hara sits on floor, right leg bent before her tailor fashion, left leg extended straight out at side. Both arms are curved gracefully over head, fingers not quite touching. Moving slowly, she bends torso to left as far as comfortable. Stretch. Shoulders must be squared, body moved straight to side. Reverse. Miss O'Hara is featured in the feminine lead of RKO Radio's "A Bill of Divorcement."

Gradual Loss Of Figure Is Unnoticed

By Ida Jean Kain

It seems that I am always telling you about some young woman who is a paragon—who keeps her figure, gets lovely as the years go by, and who sets a shining example for you to follow.

All right, this is a change. A few years ago, I wrote about a model with one of the roughest features Manhattan could offer. She was almost like a superlative figure, a regal posture and talent, he could put a song over like obduracy's business! So it didn't surprise me to hear that she had made the grade and was singing professionally and I dropped round to get the second installment of her steps-to-success story. But it isn't that kind of story, that exquisite creature has gained 30 pounds, has a wretched posture, and has completely lost that r of distinction. Frankly, she looks like someone who has quit riding particularly how she looks—and she is still a young woman! At the most appalling thing is that she didn't seem to realize how much she has changed.

In this case, the root of the trouble is a combination of continual late hours and too much food. It seems that a night club entertainer is often invited to dine and wine with the patrons—and is accepted. Right there is the explanation of the increase in weight.

On such occasions, nobody stops to add up the protective foods in the menu and she appears to have developed an avitaminosis—and that is a drain on one's looks and energy. It is not at all surprising to learn that she is tired of the time and has given up those grand exercises which made her figure the envy of the other models. She never exercises any more.

I have always suspected that I might have a streak of the reformer in me. (How else could I write this column?) Here was a situation that called for diplomatic evasion. Perhaps I should have chatted pleasantly, made a vague pretense of getting the interview and escaped. But I know that she can be lovely again—and that her career depends upon it. I had to outline a slimming diet, high in the essential vitamins and minerals, and to demonstrate a set of exercises—a program that could help her to regain what she had lost. If she wakes up to what is really happened and does something about it, she still has a chance to succeed.

Perhaps the main reason for letting down" is that the change so gradual it seems natural,

MY DAY: What About Economic Security in Far East?

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I suppose for many people the question of the three months' closing of the Burma road, over which supplies go to China, seems rather an academic question. Yet, when a nation is cut off from its ports, its one source of connection with the outside world, it must seem rather important to that nation.

I can remember, when I was young, having had explained to me what a great stride had been taken in drawing together the various nations of the world when trade had been established between China, Japan and ourselves. The "open-door" policy was considered one to create better understanding between the yellow races of the Far East and the white races of this continent. Just as we see understanding receding between us and the nations of Europe, we see it disappearing in the Far East as well.

In a minor way, Japan is doing to China what some day a combination of nations might do to us. It is hard even to imagine such a thing, but the continent of Europe under one dictator can have all the advantages that the United States economic system established when it drew 13 sovereignties into one and extended that sovereignty over 48 states.

With this kind of economy in Europe, under a man who does not have to persuade his people that he is right in anything he wishes to do, but simply gets the best advice he can and orders something done, we may well look with some concern on what is happening in the Far East, for we might find ourselves between two fairly strong pinners.

The Chinese people are making an interesting experiment in co-operatives which we might well assist. Their success and their economic setup may mean freedom of intercourse in the Far East with people living under a democratic form of government—a situation which we must hope to see in both China and Japan in the future.

An appeal has come to me to help China with their industrial co-operatives. They have over 2,000 small industries now established, making over 500 kinds of goods of local raw materials for local needs, with a monthly turnover of $6,000,000 in Chinese money. There are millions of men and women to work in these new industries.

It may sound selfish, but from the point of view of our own interest, wouldn't it be wise to encourage the growth of economic security in China? I realize the needs of Japan, I am all for peaceful trade with Japan, but somehow it seems to me that this spread of war all over the world must be stopped, and the best way to do so in the Far East would be to build up economic security.

Income Is Easily Adjusted To Meet Needs by Budgeting

Robbing the bank again! Life's always like that when you don't budget.

But when you plan all your spending, you're prepared for emergencies—and you can still put money for things you want. Budgeting shows where to cut, how to bring expenses in line.

On an income of $150 a month, $15 a week for food is too much, you discover, for a family of four. You can easily keep this item at about $11. Plan meals on a weekly basis, buy staples such as coffee, sugar, butter, eggs and flour once a week. Then divide the balance of your food allowance for day-to-day purchases of vegetables, fruits, meats.

Or you may find that expenses like light and laundry run much higher than a safe 15 per cent of your income. For such bills have a Household Operating fund.

I'M TAKING A "KITCHEN VACATION" THIS SUMMER!

• Thanks to Mueller's, women all over the country are spending much less time in the kitchen and serving better meals this Summer. Mueller's Thin Spaghetti Dinner—so easily and quickly prepared—makes a delicious, substantial one-dish meal—the kind men like. (See recipes on Mueller's package.) Mueller's Thin Spaghetti cooks in only 9 minutes—needs no cold water rinse—is never sticky or soggy. Why not serve Mueller's Thin Spaghetti with zesty, tangy cheese sauce tonight!

Maureen O'Hara faces the wall, arms outstretched at shoulder height, palms flat against the wall. She places right foot approximately two feet directly behind the left, toes of both feet straight forward. Moving slowly, she bends left knee in straight line and heels of both feet on floor. Reverse. This exercise "pulls muscles long," prevents bunched muscles at calves, knees and also a good exercise to improve the posture.

Bob Hope's Personal Appearance Tour Smashes All-Time Record

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.—Bob Hope returned to Hollywood with $100,000 more than when he left it eight weeks ago. Bob's personal appearance tour is said to have smashed the all-time record. In Chicago alone he grossed $64,000 during his week there. And it wasn't much less in Kansas City, Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston. All of which has convinced his picture bosses at Paramount that they have a gold mine in the lad, and he will now get grade "A" pictures only. And yet a year and a half ago Bob was almost dropped from the Paramount contract list! The genius who insisted on Hope's retention ought to get a bonus.

Mickey Rooney scorns the aid of menthol for a final crying jag in "Strike Up the Band." "I can do it without," Mickey tells Director Buz Berkeley. Do you want to know how? First of all, Berkeley orders everyone on the set to be quiet. Then Mickey clenches his fists, looks down, shuffles his feet, takes a couple of deep breaths, then says shakily, "All right, Buz, I'm ready!" When the picture is finished, Mickey gets a month's vacation. He's going to Canada, accompanied by a Metro press agent, to keep him out of trouble. This latter precaution has slightly irked Master Rooney, who insists "a man doesn't need a guy around as a sort of caretaker."

"I never did any such thing," says William Holden vehemently, when this columnist chides him gently about his reported proposal to Brenda Marshall. "Everything I told you before is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. I have absolutely no plan to marry Brenda." Bill insists it's all a publicity stunt hatched by Warners to coincide with the release of "The Sea Hawk," in which Miss Marshall has the feminine lead. So there we are—or are we?

The Loretta Young-Tom Lewis marriage—this one's on the level—will have all the trimmings, bridesmaids, church, big reception, wedding cake, etc. "And will last forever," states Loretta, optimistically. . . . Shirley Temple's leading man in "Babylon Revisited" will be Melvyn Douglas, provided, of course, that Shirley's mama signs for the picture. Norman Taurag probably will direct. Incidentally, the $300,000 recently received by Shirley from Fox will put her at the head of the 1940 film star earners. Her total intake for this year is already around $500,000.

Katharine Hepburn has a good memory for old friends. It was she who persuaded Metro to give Lionel Pape the job of butler in "The Philadelphia Story." Pape worked with Katie in the ill-fated stage production of "The Lake," and when he applied for a part in her picture, Miss Hepburn did the rest. Pape tells me that at the conclusion of nearly every "Lake" performance Katie used to go into a corner "and weep her eyes out." There are few people that I've met who can be as charming as Miss Hepburn—when she wants to. And at the moment she wants to. Now that the first shock is over, people in these parts are saying: "What a nice person!"

Was Errol Flynn's face red! He was showing some cowboys on the set how to throw a rope. The boys were polite and played dumb. But when Errol had quite finished, one of them picked up the rope and did some tricks with it. Hence the above-mentioned color on Errol's handsome face. Mr. Flynn, by the way, has sold his Beverly Hills mansion and is planning a new home on his Mulholland highway estate, "Flynn Acres." He can't make up his mind between a combination French-Irish-Californian chateau and or something more simple. The latter might be better, Errol.

Modern Medical Science Considers Symptoms First

By Dr. William Brady.

Medical science up to the present era has been based on normal and morbid or pathological anatomy, the structure of body tissues and organs and the changes in the structure which the physician finds in his examination.

Modern medical science takes into consideration not only the signs observed by the medical examiner but also the symptoms of which the patient complains. The practice of medicine today requires at least a practical working knowledge of physiology and of chemistry.

Long before definite structural changes can be recognized by the physician, changes in function (physiology) and in composition of the body tissues and secretions occur, in the course of disease. It is this earlier change in physiology or chemistry that gives rise to the symptom, the complaint of the individual affected. Much later, when the disease becomes fully developed or "advanced," as the old-timers expressed it, the anatomical or structural change occurs, and this gives rise to the sign elicited by the physician's examination regardless of the complaint of the individual affected.

The all too familiar distinction the old-timers drew between "functional" and "organic" disease has gone out of fashion in medical ranks, but the notion still prevails in the popular fancy and probably accounts for a good deal of dangerous or fatal procrastination and self-doctoring on the part of individuals in the incipient or functional stage of disease.

Beriberi (Sinhalese for extreme weakness), also known as multiple neuritis, is rare in America, common in the Orient, and the cause of the disease is extreme deprivation of vitamin B (thiamin). Pellagra (Italian for rough skin) is common in parts of Italy and other European countries, and in the poorer sections of the South, but rare in the northern part of the United States. It is still uncertain whether pellagra is caused by extreme deprivation of vitamin B2 (G, riboflavin) alone or of nicotinic acid (another entity of the B complex) alone or of deprivation of these and perhaps still other entities of the B complex (such as B6 or anti-dermatitis factor and the "filtrate factor" and even B1).

Diagnosis of these milder nutritional deficiencies is as yet chiefly a matter of the judgment of the physician. The confirmation of the diagnosis is the therapeutic test, that is, supplementing the patient's diet with the vitamins which are needed. In any case, even if the therapeutic test fails to confirm the diagnosis, no harm is done.

Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee To Open Ancestral Home in Marietta

• • • AFTER RESIDING for several years at the Biltmore apartments, Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee will return to Marietta at an early date to reside in the ante-bellum home belonging to her son, Lieutenant Fletcher Cole, of the United States army, now stationed at Fort Myer, Va. The famous old colonial mansion, which is one of the landmarks of Cobb county, was inherited by Lieutenant Cole from his grandfather, Henry Greene Cole.

The home was built in 1840 and has been in possession of the Cole family since 1849. The aforementioned Henry Greene Cole gave to the government a large tract of land lying opposite the home, and the tract is now the National cemetery where rest thousands of Union soldiers.

The return of Mrs. Lee to Marietta will be in the nature of a home-coming, for during the several years while Colonel Lee was on duty at Fort McPherson, he and Mrs. Lee occupied the house as their residence. The place was a popular rendezvous for army and civilian social circles, in which Colonel and Mrs. Lee have always occupied prominent positions.

Still retaining its century-old beauty and charm, the home features an interior of lofty ceilings and ornate moldings and has among its outstanding fixtures a beautiful white marble mantel. Boxed-in stairways create an atmosphere of early American life, as does the hallway on the second floor, which is built with balconies at either end which overlook the first floor.

During Colonel and Mrs. Lee's occupancy of the Cole home, the basement was converted into an attractive den where Colonel Lee kept a store of fascinating mementos of his distinguished ancestors, General Robert E. Lee and "Light Horse" Harry Lee. There are also mementos of President Theodore Roosevelt, to whom Colonel Lee was once an aide.

It is interesting to note that Lieutenant Cole is also a White House aide to another President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Cole residence was known for many years as Mon Repos, but in future it will be called Cole Manor.

• • • "THE RAINS CAME" is the name of that well-known book by Louis Bromfield, but the phrase means more than a book title to Emily Evans. It represents the beginning of a delightful friendship with Mary Jemison Cobb, of Birmingham, who arrives Monday to visit Emily at her home on Fourteenth street. It happened like this. Last year Emily went to Birmingham to serve as an attendant in the marriage of her cousin, Polly Spencer, to Dr. Ed Givhan. Polly arranged for her attendants to visit some of her close friends for the duration of the pre-nuptial festivities, so Emily was a guest at the home of Mary Jemison Cobb.

While in town one day, Emily had her pocket picked, and she was left stranded with only 50 cents and her return ticket by plane. Heavy rains had set in in the Birmingham area, and Emily was not only "rain-bound" at the Cobb home, but she could not get accommodations by plane to Atlanta because of heavy air traffic. And so the days slipped by and Emily and her hostess, who were comparative strangers, became congenial friends. Mary attended Sweet Briar College in Virginia and has many acquaintances here among the Atlanta girls who attended the Virginia school. During her stay with Emily, she will be honored at a number of informal affairs.

• • • NO ONE will be more keenly missed by her wide circle of friends here than Mrs. Shine Fleetwood, who left yesterday for Tifton, where she will make her future home. Born and reared in Atlanta as Telle Daniel, Mrs. Fleetwood returned to her native home several years ago to make her home with her brother, the late Ben Daniel. Since then she has divided her time between Tifton and Atlanta, and it is a source of deep regret here

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Sloan announce the birth of a daughter, Sylvia Elizabeth, on July 19 at Emory University hospital. Mrs. Sloan is the former Miss Lucile Keith.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pfeiffer To Visit Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer

Among interesting visitors who will be in the city for the week-end will be Mr. and Mrs. John Pfeiffer, of Auburndale, Mass., who will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dwyer at their home on Club drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer have been in Charleston, S. C., where the latter has been collecting data on the historical background of the famous old city to use in lecture tours during the coming fall and winter. Mrs. Pfeiffer lectures under the name of Sally Pfeiffer and in addition is a writer of note, being a member of the staff of the Christian Science Monitor. In the latter capacity she uses a pen name of Sally Shields. She was formerly a society writer for an Asheville, N. C. paper and is a member of the New England Press Women's organization.

A series of informal affairs have been planned for the visitors. Tomorrow morning Mrs. Geo. Beattie gives a soft drink party at her home on Pine Valley road and has invited 25 friends to meet Mrs. Pfeiffer.

The hostess will be assisted in entertaining by her sister mother, Mrs. Mobley Shephard and Mrs. W. A. Baker.

On Friday evening Dr. and Mrs. Grady Poole entertain at a bridge supper at their home on Ponce Leon for Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer and their guests and have invited friends for the affair.

Mrs. George W. Suggs has planned a small luncheon on Saturday at the Atlanta Athletic Club for Mrs. Pfeiffer.

During the weekend Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer and their guests will visit Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings at their home, Hastings Farm near Jonesboro.

McDonald-Sledd Marriage Solemnized in Brunswick

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 24.—At a lovely summer wedding this afternoon Miss Mary Eloise McDonald, of Decatur and Brunswick, became the bride of Marvin Banks Sledd, of Lynn, Mass., formerly of Decatur. The ceremony uniting the prominent young couple was performed at the First Presbyterian church at 5:30 o'clock, the pastor, the Rev. J. W. McQueen, officiating in the presence of relatives and close friends of the two families.

The decorations in the church were potted palms, bamboo and southern smilax against a white background interspersed effectively with seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers and Marie Antoinette baskets filled with white rubrum lilies and white asters. A program of music was rendered by Mrs. A. V. Wood, church organist.

Entering the church with her father, Daniel McDonald Fraser, of Brunswick, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was a radiant picture in her bridal gown of lustrous white satin, fashioned with a yoke of princess lace, long-fitted sleeves, and full skirt continuing into a long train. Her veil was styled in four tiers of illusion tulle through which were scattered tiny clusters of orange blossoms. The veil was held to the bride's hair with a fitted cap of Princess lace. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's younger sister, Miss Louisa Fraser, as maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of aquamarine net combined with lace, the skirt fashioned of wide ruffles edged with lace. She wore a coronet of rosebuds and lilies of the valley in her hair and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. The little flower girl, Forrest Eloise McDonald, of Savannah, niece and namesake of the bride, wore a long dress of aquamarine net and lace fashioned similarly to that of the maid of honor and she carried a basket of pink roses.

Warren Candler Sledd, of Decatur, served as the brother's best man and the ushers were Leighston McDonald, of Savannah, and Powell Fraser, of this city, brothers of the bride; Bill McDonald, of Brunswick, and James McLean, of Flemington.

Mrs. McDonald Fraser, mother of the bride, wore a gown of rose lace with large hat of the matching lace and a shoulder spray of gardenias. Mrs. Andrew Sledd, of Decatur, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in white lace worn with picture hat of white straw and a shoulder spray of gardenias.

DEAD—Oscar Davis Sr., prominent Atlanta real estate man and investment banker, died Tuesday night in a hospital at Rochester, Minn. He was 74.

Oscar Davis Sr., Realty, Bank Leader, Dies

Funeral for Prominent Atlantan, 74, To Be Held Tomorrow.

Oscar Davis Sr., prominent figure in Atlanta banking and real estate circles for many years, died Tuesday night in a hospital at Rochester, Minn., of complications following an operation. He was 74 years of age.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Spring Hill, with Dr. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, of which Mr. Davis was a member, officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Oscar Davis, of Boston; two grand-children, two sisters, Mrs. V. D. Seals, of Atlanta, and Mrs. C. C. Cleckley, of Augusta, and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Davis was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mary Goldsmith, sister of the surviving wife, the former Miss Lillian Goldsmith. Both were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith, of Atlanta.

Oscar Davis, the son, is a former famous football star at Georgia Tech, and is at present manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company at Boston. He is married to Miss Martha Boynton, daughter of the late George Boynton. They have two children, Oscar Davis III and Martha.

Mr. Davis was born in Greensboro, Ga., in 1866, the son of Charles Alfred Davis, noted figure in the mercantile business of that section, and Amanda Swift Davis. Shortly after his graduation from the University of Georgia, he came to Atlanta, to enter the real estate and banking business in partnership with his brother, Charles.

Their association lasted through-out the years, until the death of Charles Davis last April.

Honorary escort at the funeral will be made up of officers of the Trust Company of Georgia where the offices of the Davis brothers were located. Pallbearers will be chosen from friends of Mr. Davis from Atlanta and Greensboro.

City Beauty Board Held Constitutional

Constitutionality of the city beauty board was upheld yesterday by Judge E. E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court.

B. Anthony, operator of a beauty salon here, had sought an injunction to prevent the board from enforcing its minimum price and maximum hours schedule, which was enacted by city council. Judge Pomeroy dismissed a temporary injunction against the city and the beauty board in denying a permanent injunction upon a general demurrer presented for the city by J. C. Murphy, assistant city attorney.

Comedian Eddie Cantor appears in his first film in Atlanta in about two years at the Rialto, opening tomorrow with "Forty Little Mothers," in which he is said to have a comparatively serious role.

Opening today at the Capitol is Zane Grey's "Light of Western Stars," and tomorrow the Grand will unroll "South of Pango Pango," while the Fox shows "My Love Came Back," a light comedy with music.

"The Man Who Talked Too Much" is the Paramount feature for next week, with George Brent starring. The Cameo will play "The Ranger and the Lady" tomorrow and Saturday, while the Atlanta theater shows a double bill today, "I Stand Accused" and "Rough Riding Rhythm."

Loew's.

To the romance of the South Seas, Loew's Grand patrons will be taken this week during ultra-hot summer sun rays.

The cast features Jon Hall, who in another South Sea film, "The Hurricane," made such a hit. He is the native boy who falls in love with the white adventuress, Frances Farmer, and finally marries the golden-haired beauty at native rites.

Olympie Bradna is the dark-haired native girl who doesn't think so much of the wedding, but never the less does hula dances the audience probably will find to their liking. Also in the cast are Victor McLaglen, Gene Lockhart and Douglas Dumbrille.

Paramount.

George Brent, who seems to work in more Warner Brother films than any other actor, gives another appearance at the Paramount this week in "The Man Who Talked Too Much." The feminine interest is Virginia Bruce, who, we think, is herein playing her first Warner film.

The story concerns a district attorney who enjoys getting convictions just for the thrill of it. Once he sends the wrong man to prison and nothing he can do saves the boy from the electric chair. He loses his grip on himself, resigns, goes to the dogs, but Miss Bruce coaxes him back.

Rialto.

An Eddie Cantor picture with, of course, plenty of comedy but minus the former "gags" for which the comedian was famous, is something strange and refreshing. Such a picture is the new Cantor vehicle, "Forty Little Mothers," which comes to the Rialto theater for a seven-day engagement, starting tomorrow morning.

lue.

Many critics have said that the new Cantor picture, while different in style from what he has hitherto done, is really much better entertainment than any of his past efforts. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by Busby Berkeley.

It is, too, not exactly a musical picture, though there is music in the story. One song sung by Cantor has already indicated it will be one of the reigning hits in a very short while. It is the lullaby, "Little Curly Hair in a High Chair."

The story centers on an exclusive school for girls, with a stern lady principal—Judith Anderson—and a professor of English who is trying to keep secret the fact that a baby he has adopted out of the charity of his heart is living in his room.

The students discover the secret, though, and 40 of them try to be "little mothers" to the youngster, and also to help keep the secret. Of course they fail, but when the ensuing complications are straightened out, the picture is almost a comedy, with laughter, find relief in a touch of pathos that has the mark of true story-telling—and acting—genius.

Cameo.

"The Ranger and the Lady," Republic western which will run tomorrow and Saturday at the Cameo theater, presents Roy Rogers, one of the up and coming horse-opera stars, in a typical western role. He portrays Captain Colt, the young officer of the Texas Rangers, who finds obedience to his ranger's oath intolerable when his superior officer is resorting to knavery to enrich his own pockets at the expense of the pioneers of the southwest.

Capitol.

The Capitol theater comes through with another one of its bargain programs starting today, in that in addition to offering the feature picture, Zane Grey's "The Light of Western Stars," the theater will offer as a special added attraction two complete and official recent fight pictures. These represent the Max Baer and Tony Galento encounter, and the Joe Louis and Autroy Godoy world's heavyweight championship fight.

"The Light of Western Stars," which proved to be the most popular western story ever written by Zane Grey, will offer a cast well known to film fans and including such names as Victor Jory, Russell Hayden, Jo Ann Sayers, Noah Berry Jr., F. Farrell MacDonald and a host of others.

The fight pictures are said to be especially full of action and thrills, and the Baer-Galento pictures will give sports fans an opportunity to witness Baer in close-up action, so they may judge for themselves whether Baer is the suitable selection to fight Louis in September.

This will mark the first showing in Atlanta of either of these fight pictures.

Fox.

Olivia de Havilland steps out in a light, airy comedy with plenty of music in the Fox offering, "My Love Came Back," which begins a run tomorrow.

The romantic "other member" of the partnership is Jeffrey Lynn, but Charles Winninger is the "sugar daddy" who tries to be naughty and can't. He sends Olivia to music school to continue violin studies, but she never catches on that it's anything more than a scholarship, and therein many funny instances arise innocently and naturally.

Music in the film is excellent and the trick shots which show Olivia actually playing a violin, which she can't, are so cleverly done you'll never realize the difference. This picture also features little Ann Gillis, who made a personal appearance here with "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," in her first "grown-up" role. She is all of 17 and is quite the young lady of the world.

EX-EMPRESS IS GUARDED.

ROYALSTON, Mass., July 24.—(P)—A 24-hour guard has been placed around the residence of Calvin Bullock in Royalston, state police announced today, to prevent sightseers from annoying the former Empress Zita of Austria and her daughter, Archduchess Elizabeth, who are guests at the Bullock home.

Mitchell Bows In First Round To Doll, 2 Down

Dietz Trips Luke, 3 and 2; Shoch Beats Fred, 4 and 3.

DETROIT, July 24.—(P)—Worth Stimits Jr., of Colorado Springs, Col., new co-holder of the qualifying record, barely survived in the second round of the national public links championship today. He took a 20-hole duel from F. E. Ames, of Beaumont, Texas, after being one down at the turn and two down going to the 12th.

By the victory Stimits qualified to meet Edward Furgol, of Utica, N. Y., the other holder of the qualifying record, in the third round tomorrow morning. Furgol blasted out a two-up second-round victory over William Fritz, of San Francisco. Luke Barnes and Fred Owen, of Atlanta, after winning their first-round matches, bowed out in the second round this afternoon. In the morning Barnes beat John Skinner, of Cleveland, 4 and 3. Owen beat James Johnson, of Detroit, 1 up.

David A. Mitchell, 1934 champion, of Atlanta, lost in the morning round to William E. Doll, of Louisville, 1 down. Doll canned a 35-foot putt on the final green for a birdie three to gain his victory.

DETROIT, July 24.—Results of second-round matches today in the 19th annual National Public Links championship at the Rackham municipal course here: UPPER BRACKET—Labron Harris, Guthrie, Okla., defeated G. W. Duvall, Kansas City, 3 and 2; Walter Smola, Omaha, Neb., defeated Martin Leitch, Portland, Ore., 4 and 3; Edward Furgol, Utica, N. Y., defeated William Fritz, San Francisco, 2 up; Worth Stimits Jr., Colorado Springs, Col., defeated F. E. Ames, Beaumont, Texas, 1 up, 20 holes; Charles Lind, Denver, defeated Walter Gilliam, San Mateo, Cal., 1 up; Robert Clark, St. Paul, defeated Michael Polak, Indianapolis, 4 and 3; William Bubb, Chicago, defeated Einar Hanson, San Francisco, 4 and 3; Louis Jennings, Portland, Ore., defeated Sam Musico, Pittsburgh, 3 and 2. LOWER BRACKET—Michael Stefanek, Gary, Ind., defeated Vern Bowdye, Salt Lake City, 4 and 2; Paul Felski, Pittsburgh, defeated Rollen Welch, Milwaukee, 5 and 4; Roy Dolce, Denver, defeated William Doll, Louisville, 1 up; Edward Harper, Pocatello, Idaho, defeated Lester Jankowski, Summit, N. J., 3 and 2; Mike Dietz, Detroit, defeated Luke Barnes, Atlanta, 3 and 2; Donald Shoch, Dayton, Ohio, defeated Fred Owen, Atlanta, 4 and 3; Jack Larose, Detroit, defeated Carl Kauffman, Pittsburgh, 2 and 1; William Susak, Buffalo, defeated Kenneth Peterson, Dayton, Ohio, 5 and 4. THIRD-ROUND PAIRINGS. UPPER BRACKET—Harris vs. Shola; Furgol vs. Stimits; Lind vs. Clark; Bubb vs. Jennings. LOWER BRACKET—Stefanek vs. Pasimowski; Dolce vs. Harper; Dietz vs. Shoch; Larose vs. Susak.

Kirby Defeats Mrs. Swinney; Suggs Winner

Dot Plays Wilmer, Louise Meets Stubb Today.

By DOROTHY KIRBY. BILTMORE FOREST COUNTRY CLUB, July 24.—Everything went as expected today with the exception of the match between Mrs. Neblett and Mrs. Wilmer. Mrs. Wilmer won, 2 and 1. She is from England and is over here with her sister while the war is raging. She will be my opponent for tomorrow.

I beat Mrs. Swinney, 9 and 7. However, at the end of the first hole I was doubtful as to just how big ones there but settled down for a 38 on the front nine.

Louise Suggs came through well and takes on Eileen Stubb next. Louise should win this one but Eileen will put up a good match.

Jane Crum won from Mrs. Tumlin and finished the whole round out for another 79. That makes two in a row for her. She really knocks that ball.

We had a putting contest in the afternoon and Jane and I came in second with 34 apiece but a 33 was made by someone else. We played off for second spot and I managed to win this and some golf balls along with it, which I can use handily.

I am saving up for the match with Jane Cothran; that is, if I get by tomorrow, for Jane I will meet in the semifinals if we both win our next matches. Since Jane has beaten me all three years I have played in this tournament, I would like to get my revenge. However, I shouldn't cross bridges before I get to them.

Sharp SHOOTIN'

A FEW ODD INCIDENTS IN GOLF.

A golf course is no place to nurse a cold in the good old summer time, so I have been sticking close to home and a case of orange juice for a couple of days.

Colds are not interesting to folks unless they have them, so let's drop the subject by pointing out the source with the idea of preventing others.

This one caught up with me in Macon the day after the State tournament ended. Staying over to make another attempt to come within 20 strokes of par, I was chilled by Curtis DeLamar, Buford Boone and Lefty Cornelius, of the Macon Telegraph.

The chilling was enough to give anyone a cold.

However, during the chilling—which happens to be a way of saying beating—a couple of stories turned up.

One of them concerned an Atlanta aviator, one of the Candler's, who landed on the Idle Hour golf course when he could not find the airport during a fog.

He made a safe landing and didn't do any particular damage to the course. His offers to pay for the damage done were turned down by members of the club.

In appreciation of his courtesy and hospitality, the Atlanta sent the club a nice trophy and suggested that a tournament be held.

That was 10 years ago. So proud of the trophy is the club that it remains on display in the clubhouse.

Some of the players in the State meet may have noticed bare spots on the fourth green which apparently had been made by a machine. The tracks were visible, all right.

Those tracks were made the Friday before the tourney. A man was cutting the fairways early in the morning. It was still dark, and he was using lights on the machine to see what he was doing.

An automobile stopped on the road a few feet from the green. A fellow got out and demanded that he be allowed to operate the vehicle.

At gunpoint, the stranger insisted. He operated it, too, whirling around and around the green before his companions were able to make him leave.

Whisky and that green certainly didn't mix.

And have you heard the one about the ball thief with an almost-perfect escape?

Beside the fairway, hidden in bushes along the river bank, this fellow waited for long drives. When they came, he rushed out, grabbed the balls, jumped into a motorboat and roared upstream.

Everything worked in the ball hawk's favor until a couple of caddies brought out their .22's for a little target practice.

Walker Predicts Louis Will Quit

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 24.—(P)—Colonel D. Walker Wear, member of the New York Athletic Commission, predicted Joe Louis would retire as a heavyweight champion at the end of this year.

"I talked with Louis recently and he is all wrapped up in his riding stable near Detroit. The guy has never cared much about fighting and now I think he efficiently has decided to quit. He simply has lost interest in the game."

Wear had some other observations about boxing. For instance, he thinks Mike Jacobs is a savior of the business and not the mitt monopolist he has been painted by some of his enemies.

"He's a lot like Tex Rickard, only smarter. He's smarter in that he puts his boxers under yearly contracts, but I wouldn't call him a monopolist. He's taking a big gamble with every boxer he tied up."

THE MORTAL STORM

Graf von Maberg Shrewdly Guesses The Truth About Olaf and Fritz

By PHYLLIS BOTTOME.

SYNOPSIS. En route to the Maberg estate to recuperate after an illness that followed the murder of her Communist lover, Sophie, as he attempted to flee Germany from the Nazis, Freya, Olaf's sister, who is driving her, silent and moody, is unaware that Olaf, as well as her mother, knows that it was Freya's older brother, Fritz, who gave the order to kill Hans; and that as Fritz Maberg, her aristocratic father, who carried out the order, Olaf and Fritz are at present confined in a prison—not for killing Hans, but for doing so on their own initiative and against Nazi discipline. At the Maberg home, the Graf von Maberg, Fritz's father, shrewdly guesses the truth despite the version told her by her husband, the Graf Ulrich. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XL

"Personally I have nothing against speaking the truth. I have even myself done so—when I found it to be necessary, as it sometimes is, but I have far more often found—even with your father—who on account of his many defects—is a comparatively easy husband and that it is far better to withhold one's point of view. Nothing ever gained by an open difference with a man! Listen to all that Olaf believes and wishes—as it came from Heaven, and act as you had previously intended to do, without drawing attention to it.

"Of course, if Olaf finds out, he may object, and then you have a variety of expedients open to you—that of appearing considerably simpler than you really are is often the wisest! But I need not point out such tactics to you—you have often observed how you get your own way against the wishes of others—without too much friction.

"Always remember that no relationship is so easy as marriage, whatever people say to the contrary. A husband is generally within reach; he is of the opposite sex; and his main interests must be the same as your own. Besides, a man in love with you should always be easy for a girl to deal with. And when he is no longer in love with you, you need have no further dealings with him. From the moment your father was unfaithful to me—and this happened almost immediately after our marriage—I took my own way; and if he questioned it—I had my argument ready!

"Olaf, of course, may not give you such a good excuse—but at the worst, what do you lose by annoying him? Your husband's love? I assure you, my dear, very much! I should retain the very husband's love for any length of time or wish to!

"Naturally you think the opposite now, and very rightly—but when the time comes for all this excitement to die down, you will find that life can be a very pleasant and respectable affair, without having a young man on his knees to you! The Graf von Maberg made such long speeches; but the question interested her; and it was a subject upon which she had spent a great deal of careful thought.

"For that silly little Freya," said the Graf von Maberg, "I have no sympathy whatever! Naturally she would never have been happy with that ridiculous peasant boy, who got shot the other day. And I think it wholly irrational to invite her here—to get over, what should never have happened. It is all the doing of that fantastic Trattenbach woman—who has managed her own life so badly that in spite of being considered a beauty in her youth—the first married a spendthrift, and then a Jew! I gave way to your father about his visit simply because Fritz was not here—and they both made such a fuss about it! However, I shall not concern myself with either of the Roths. Amelie is quite uncivilized. She does not play bridge and her conversation has never been of the slightest interest to me. Since she is to be your mother-in-law one must, of course, be polite to her. Fortunately the Schloss is large, and she and Freya both like the open air. As far as I am concerned, they are welcome to it! It is time now for our coffee—please ring the bell."

Sophie rang the bell, but she sighed as she got up, the virtuous sign of an altruist. She did not agree with her mother about Freya. Her own joy—and it was great in spite of her few misgivings—as to Olaf's pliability—made her feel genuinely sorry for this other girl who had lost her lover. Without her mother's knowledge, Sophie had fervently urged Freya's visit upon her father.

The mere fact that God had given Sophie all that she wanted, and in a way that relieved her from having to break any of his laws in order to get it—whereas Freya had been forcibly deprived of both these satisfactions—increased Sophie's pity for her friend.

Freya had done wrong—very wrong indeed, publicly and on lines that could not be overlooked—but she had lost her lover; and she was still Olaf's sister.

Sophie had more heart than her mother, and she was also a great deal more curious. Freya's disavowed ex-husband, and up till now Sophie knew very little about it.

"Mamma," she said, after she had returned to her seat, "what do you suppose really happened at the frontier? Why did Olaf and Fritz turn up just when they were most needed? And how did Freya get there at all—and at the exact moment that her Communist boy was shot?"

"We know nothing," her mother said promptly, "nothing at all; but we have not been deprived of our natural intelligence, so that we can draw a good deal from your father's bungled attempt to conceal all the facts over the telephone! A pitiful performance on his part! Considering that he lies so often, one would have supposed that he might have evoked a less crystal-clear method of giving himself away!

Maria knocked at the door, bringing in a heavy silver tray, which she laid with desperate care upon a small Biedermeier table, beside the Graf's tapestried chair.

Maria stood nervously, her eyes fixed in an agony of suspense upon those of her mistress. The Graf nodded her head with grave satisfaction.

Maria retired murmuring her gratitude. She had nothing to be grateful for, since the Graf paid her the lowest possible wages and exacted the hardest amount of work from her, nevertheless the utterances of the Graf to her servants seldom failed to inspire gratitude.

After the door had closed upon Maria, the Graf poured out their coffee, delicately scooping the whipped cream with a silver trowel, over its clear brown surface. She tried a small mouthful in turn of each Brocken. Finding nothing wrong with either, she once more returned to the calamitous adventures of Freya.

"What your father said," she observed, "over the telephone was, that owing to Fritz and Olaf's behavior in assisting or conniving at the escape of this loose Communist—who nevertheless fortunately did not escape—the Nazis were keeping them under arrest, though in a mild manner, for a few months, in a prison fortress. Does this appear to you like the Nazis? Or indeed like Fritz and Olaf? Why should they wish a Communist—so inconvenient to their own family let alone the state—to escape? The only person who behaved with any consistency, according to your father, was the Communist peasant boy, he ran away—and was very properly—shot! What Freya was doing with him—I leave to you to imagine! No doubt it will be described all over Munich! Into such a family, we were supposed to marry our Fritz! I do not count your marriage since the Von Roths really have nothing to do with the Roths, there is no admixture of blood—Gott sei Dank! Let that hoyden Freya dig her own grave and lie in it! For such a funeral I do not send flowers!"

The Graf's mild eyes positively snapped as she helped herself to another Brocken.

Sophie leaned forward breathlessly. "But, mamma—then you mean—" she exclaimed incoherently, "you really think—that it was Olaf and Fritz—that the other way round! I couldn't help wondering—poor Freya! It would kill her to think they did it! Why, she worships Olaf! She must never be told the truth—no matter what happens! Father must have guessed it or been told by the Nazis! And that is why he lied to us! And Olaf in his letter to me, said nothing at all!"

The Graf tried a petit-four, and then went back to Kaviar.

"No doubt," she murmured in her quiet, equable voice, "it would displease Freya very much to know the obvious truth—though you probably exaggerate its effect upon her. Still I see no reason why she should be told at present. One never knows, however, when such a fact may come in useful. Sisters-in-law are sometimes very obstructive. Ah! I hear your father's steps! Be careful that he does not guess that we know what has happened. Maria should have detained him longer with the sherry. Now we may have to sacrifice our second cups. This is what comes of being late for meals! The innocent are deprived of their just deserts for the sake of the guilty!"

As Emil turned the car up towards Schloss Maberg, large heavy flakes of snow began to fall, among the pink crocuses, melting as they fell.

The sky itself was like a gigantic flower, shedding its life away, petal by icy petal.

The walls of the Schloss Maberg stood up thick and stark, defrauded of their spring background.

STRANGE—Winifred Moore, blind prodigy who reads a Braille music book with her feet while playing the piano, will be the guest personality on the Strange as It Seems program, during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Accompanied by her faithful guide dog, Miss Moore has flown to New York from her home in Hattiesburg, Miss.

Miss Moore has always been an ambitious student of the arts. An accomplished reader of the Braille method, she decided to study music by the same means but discovered that she could not manipulate the Braille book and work the piano keys at the same time. Consequently, she began studying the Braille notes with her feet. Her companion and faithful guide of recent years has been a dog acquired from the Tail Waggers' Institute of California.

MUSIC HALL—Ever loyal to the summer clients of the Music Hall, Bing Crosby has arranged an imposing list of guests consisting of Raymond Massey, Shirley Ross, Mildred Dilling, for the broadcast Allan Jenkins and the harpist, to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight. Bing will be aided and abetted by the Music Mads and John Scott Trotter's orchestra.

This is one of the rare appearances of Raymond Massey as Raymond Massey in the past two years. The actor has been closely identified with the title-role in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" which he created on the radio several times in addition to appearance in the stage play and the movie.

ALDRICH—Henry Aldrich will find the dollars saved toward his second-hand car won't stretch any further than its ancient rubber tires, but an unexpected windfall places it within his grasp in "The Aldrich Family" starring Ezra Stone, over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight.

J. H. Johnston Will Be Buried At Woodstock

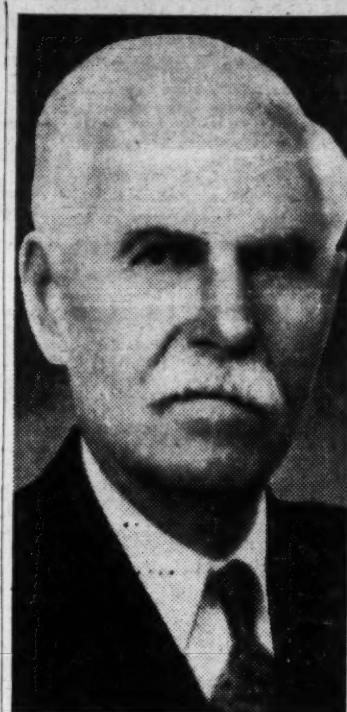

Body To Lie in State Two Hours Before Funeral.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. WOODSTOCK, Ga., July 24.—Rites for J. H. Johnston, 85-year-old Woodstock banker and merchant, who died at his home here last night after a short illness, will be held in Woodstock Methodist church at 3:30 o'clock (C. S. T.) Thursday afternoon. The body will lie in state from 1 to 3 o'clock. The services will be conducted by the Rev. W. F.

Lunsford, and interment will be in near-by Enon cemetery.

An active churchman, Mr. Johnston had been a member of the Methodist church since boyhood, and had long served as a member and chairman of the board of stewards in Woodstock Methodist. In the business world, he was president of the Bank of Woodstock and head of the firm of Johnston Company, established in 1898. In civic life, he had served as a member of the town council.

Mr. Johnston, long a close friend of the late Clark Howell, had been a constant reader of The Constitution more than 60 years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Avis Benson Johnston; a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Bradley, of Chattanooga, and six sons, Smith L., Joe E. and Hugh L. Johnston, of Woodstock; W. A. Johnston, of Wilmington, Cal.; J. W. Johnston, of Chattanooga, and Jack J. Johnston, of Atlanta.

rites today—J. H. Johnston, 85, of Woodstock, will be buried this afternoon in Enon cemetery near Woodstock. He died at his home Tuesday night.

Americas Urge Stamping Out 'Fifth Column'

Probe, Possible Limitation of Diplomatic Agents Proposed.

HAVANA, July 24.—(P)—Firm measures to stamp out "Fifth Column" activities by foreign diplomatic agents or other persons and knit hemisphere defenses were urged tonight by foreign ministers of the American republics.

Proposals before the peace preservation committee headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull included an investigation of diplomatic and consular agents and possible limitation of their immunity privileges.

Simultaneously Cuba went a step ahead of the United States proposal to establish a "collective trusteeship" over western colonies of European nations in the event they are threatened with acquisition by another non-American state.

Cuba suggested that the Pan-American nations issue a declaration warning that "any western hemisphere territory offering peril" to any American nation may be occupied by armed American forces.

(Meanwhile, a drive to put teeth into the declaration of Panama, embodying the 300-mile-wide "security belt" around the new world, by converting it into a formal treaty was started by delegates to the meeting, the United Press said.)

(The move was disclosed as it became increasingly apparent that Argentine opposition had stymied, at least temporarily, plans for establishment of a joint Pan-American mandate over American possessions of conquered European countries, according to the United Press.)

Secretary Hull and other members of a subcommittee, however, were busy drafting proposals dealing with European possessions in this hemisphere into one document. Cuba proposed that any occupied colony should be given the ultimate choice of independence or annexation to an American nation.

Petain Government Will Glorify Peasant

VICHY, France, July 2.—(P)—A campaign to make the peasants France's favorite sons was initiated today by Pierre Caziot, minister of agriculture in the Petain government, who said agricultural reconstruction would be accomplished by showing the peasantry their "social importance."

Men of the soil, he declared, must have comfortable, well lighted, airy homes and their "past impression" of inferiority in the social scale must be banished.

France's cereal crops are in satisfactory condition, Caziot said, although harvesting will be difficult. He said potatoes, beets and some other items have suffered from war and disease.

Practice Mines Are Laid In New York Harbor

FORT HANCOCK, N. J., July 24.—(P)—Within the waters of the great harbor of New York the army quietly is going about its annual summer mine-laying maneuvers.

Sometime in August the practice maneuvers will give way to the placing of electrically controlled mines—not of the contact type—in selected harbor channels. He said potatoes, beets and some other items have suffered from war and disease.

Rumania Takes Over British Oil Company

Huge Stocks Are Placed Within Reach of Hitler's Army.

BUCHAREST, July 24.—(P)—Rumania's pro-Nazi government took over operation of the country's largest oil company tonight, thereby placing huge stocks of British-produced petroleum within reach of Germany's mechanized forces.

Orders placing the $15,000,000 Austro-Romana Corporation under a national oil commissioner with full powers over production and distribution came a few hours before the departure of Premier Gigurtu and Foreign Minister Manoilescu for a conference with Adolf Hitler and his foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop, at Salzburg. A communique announced that Gigurtu and Manoilescu would proceed directly to Rome for conversations with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano after meeting Hitler and Von Ribbentrop.
